City Comes Under Artillery Fire

Indians Close In On Dacca

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Indian artillery opened fire today on military targets in Dacca, the East Pakistan capital and the last redoubt of the Pakistan army, an Indian military spokesman said.

The army spokesman in Calcutta refused to give any details about how far Indian troops are from Dacca. The military briefing map showed no advances in the past 24 hours in the arrows designating Indian troop positions—last reported to be only six miles from the capital. The spokesman said, however, that a three-pronged infantry-armor-artillery attack on Dacca "is progressing well."

"All three advances are within artillery range of Dacca," added the spokesman. He said that the heaviest artillery being used by the Indians are 130mm guns with a range of a little more than 15 miles.

An Indian government spokesman in New Delhi reported the advances were on Dacca are coming from the north, northwest and east. Radio Pakistan continued to claim that the Pakistani troops were putting up stiff resistance. But the political adviser to East Pakistan's military government and others in Dacca reportedly tried to arrange a cease-fire with the Indians. There were indications that

Reds Veto U.N. Cease-Fire Call

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council makes another attempt today to reach agreement on a formula for ending the India-Pakistan war, but Pakistan calls the latest proposal unacceptable.

The new effort came after the Soviet Union, India's backer, used its third veto in nine days Monday night to kill a U.S. proposal for a cease-fire and troop withdrawal. The vote was 11-2 for the American resolution, with China voting with the majority, and Britain and France, the other two powers with a veto, abstaining. Poland sided with the Soviet Union against the proposal. The new resolution, proposed by Italy and Japan, calls upon India and Pakistan to take all measures to bring about an immediate cease-fire and begin disengagement of troops. It also calls for "an immediate opening of negotiations, with a view to achieving a comprehensive political settlement" in East Pakistan, and for appointment of a three-man committee from among the 15 council members to "assist India and Pakistan in their efforts to bring about normalcy in the area of conflict."

Pakistani Ambassador Agh Shhi said the plan was unacceptable. He did not say why, but presumably his government would object because it calls for dis-

Viet Units Take Cambodian Town As Reds Pull Back

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops seized the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Chup today without any opposition, military spokesmen said.

"We now control Chup, one officer declared. He said reconnaissance teams fanned out into the 75-square-mile plantation, the largest in Indochina and a major base camp for the North Vietnamese 7th and 9th Divisions.

Two North Vietnamese soldiers defected to the South Vietnamese in the town, and intelligence officers were interrogating them. It was the first time in nearly a year that the South Vietnamese had established any kind of presence in Chup, the scene of hard fighting during the first allied invasion of Cambodia in May 1970 and again last February.

The operation is receiving heavy air support from the United States. The U.S. Command in a delayed report announced that an Army CH-1 observation helicopter covering the operation was shot down Sunday and the two crewmen were killed. It was the fourth U.S. aircraft shot down in eastern Cambodia in the past five days, with a total of three Americans killed and two wounded.

U.N. Action On Middle East Of Little Help, Israel Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel says the General Assembly's latest resolution on the Middle East peace talks has only prolonged the deadlock.

The assembly voted 79-7 with 35 abstentions Monday to call for resumption of the indirect talks through U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring and for Israel's commitment to withdraw from occupied Egyptian territory.

"The situation remains the same as it has been for the past 18 months—in effect it just prolongs the deadlock," Israeli sources said soon after the vote.

Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed Hassan El-ayyat said before the vote that Egypt's pledge to make a peace agreement would be cancelled if Israel did not match it with a pledge to withdraw from the Sinai desert.

draw from Egyptian territory, and from Egypt to make a peace agreement. The resolution noted that Egypt had given a "positive reply to Jarring, and it urged Israel "to respond favorably."

Demos See GOP Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says there are "grave questions of ethics, law and propriety about financial arrangements for the 1972 Republican National Convention."

An administration official said O'Brien's assertions were without fact or substance. O'Brien cited "continuing public reports that a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. pledged $400,000 to underwrite the GOP convention in San Diego. He said the administration out-of-court settlement of an antitrust case against ITT "demands that questions be raised."

"Only the most candid explanation by the Nixon administration can dispel this cloud of grave 'impropriety,'" O'Brien said Monday.

"Eight days after the selection of San Diego was announced by the Republican National Committee, 'The Department of Justice and ITT announced agreement on an out-of-court settlement of three pending ITT merger cases involving Hartford Fire Insurance Co., the Grinnell Corp. and Canteen Corp.,' the Democratic chairman said in a letter to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Income Tax Collection System Set Up

Remap, Property Tax Appraisals Given Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—House and Senate leaders Wednesday are expected to sign the state's first income tax legislation then forward it to Gov. John Gilligan for his signature and enactment into law.

With the fate of the measure now assured, the Ohio Department of Taxation Monday began gearing up for collection of the .5 to 3.5 per cent graduated tax on personal income and the 4 to 8 per cent tax on corporation earnings.

Collections begin Jan. 1. Accompanying the tax measure to the governor's desk is a biennial budget of $7.7 billion, with $790 million in new spending money for the state through July, 1973.

New revenues are expected to approach $1 billion over the next full biennium.

When the assembly reconvenes for floor sessions Wednesday, two major issues will be considered before motions are made to recess what is already one of the longest legislative sessions in the state's history.

Bills by both Republicans and Democrats are to be offered to redistrict the state's congressional boundaries on the basis of the 1970 federal census.

Death Penalty For Manson Supported

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the second time Charles Manson has left a courtroom here for San Quentin's Death Row with a judges verdict urging no mercy.

"This is an appropriate case for the death penalty," Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older had declared in confirming a jury's death verdict for the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

On Monday, concluding Mansons trial for two other murders, Superior Court Judge Raymond Choate said he hoped Manson will never be paroled from a life sentence because he "would be a danger to any community in which he was released."

Manson then was put aboard a Sheriff's Department bus for the 450-mile ride to San Quentin to wait out his appeals and court rulings on the death penalty. He had been there briefly last spring before he was returned to stand trial for two other murders. All eight occurred in 1969.

Judge Choate confirmed the jury's verdict of life imprisonment on the murder count in the death of musician Gary Hinman—killed because he refused to give money to Manson and his followers, the prosecution asserted.

But the judge ordered his imposition of life sentences stayed, pending the completion of appeals, in a conspiracy count involving Hinman and movie stuntman Donald "Shorty" Shea, whose body was never found, and in the count for Sheas alleged death.

Lawyer Being Sued By Imprisoned Client
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Well-known criminal lawyer William Foss Hopkins has been sued for $2 million by a former client who was convicted in the mail-bomb murder of Donald Roney of Lorain, Ohio, in 1968.

The suit was filed Monday in U.S. District Court and contended that Hopkins failed to act in the best interest of his client, Orville Stivel II, who is 24 and formerly of suburban Colerain Township.

Paul W. Brown Seeks Court Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Paul W. Brown, 56-year-old former Ohio attorney general, announced today he will be a candidate for election to the Ohio Supreme Court for the full term beginning Jan. 2, 1973.

Brown, formerly of Youngstown and now of Columbus, was elected twice to the Court of Appeals and twice to the Ohio Supreme Court before being appointed attorney general by former Gov. James A. Rhodes. While serving as attorney general he sought but failed to obtain the Republican nomination for governor.

His term of office as attorney general expired in January 1971.

Water Quality Meeting Held

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A call for a unified, non-dogmatic approach to difficult water treatment problems was issued Monday by leaders in national water pollution control.

"Let us not have any religious wars over water quality," said Lt. Gen. Frederick Clarke, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, at a conference held at Ohio State University.

"We must look at conventional methods and anything else we can find that might help us solve any given problem in any given area."

Clarke was the keynote speaker at the conference scheduled by the OSU School of Natural Resources and by the Ohio Environmental Council, in alliance of 30 conservation-oriented organizations.

Chief topic at the meeting was the so-called Schaeffer plan that would be part of the engineers plan for setting up five regional waste treatment projects across the country, including the Cleveland-Akron area.

Freed Americans Home From Red China

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Americans, including a California woman who celebrates her 26th birthday today and Miss Harbert arrived by helicopter at Valley Forge Military Hospital, 25 miles northwest of here.

The pair arrived at 5:40 a.m. after a short flight from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., their first mainland U.S. land-since she and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., began their 10,000-mile flight from Hong Kong where they were freed Monday.

"I'm so happy to be back," a smiling Fecteau said after he and Miss Harbert arrived by helicopter at Valley Forge Military Hospital, 25 miles northwest of here.

Col. Philip A. Deffer, commanding officer at the hospital, said they would be taken immediately to a medical ward and examined by physicians.

"They are tired," he said. "These are patients who have had a long and arduous journey."

It was not known how long they would remain at the hospital.

Miss Harbert wore pink slacks and a parka. Fecteau was dressed in black trousers and a parka.

Foreign Aid Delays Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is ready to send President Nixon a bill extending Phase 2 economic powers for a year. But adjournment still depends on settlement of a dispute over foreign aid.

The Senate passed the Phase 2 bill Monday night shortly after Senate-House conferees finished work on the compromise version. The House planned to follow suit today on the bill giving the president authority to control wages, prices and rents through April 30, 1973.

The House also expected to take up a continuing resolution advanced by Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, as the solution to the foreign-aid quandary.

The resolution would provide funds through March 15 for foreign aid and for the Defense Department and District of Columbia. The regular Defense and D.C. appropriations bills still are tied up.

But even if the House goes along with the $2.6-billion aid resolution, there is no guarantee the Senate will act quickly since that measure does not include the end-the-Vietnam war amendment which was in the Senate foreign-aid bill.

The temporary aid resolution also includes $300 million in assistance to Israel.

In this situation, congressional leaders saw no chance of ending the 1971 session before Wednesday and little likelihood they could do it then.

The conferees included in the economic-controls bill provisions from both the original versions designed to assure that most persons deprived of pay raises by the Aug. 15-Nov. 14 freeze now will get them.

Roundtown
CHRISTMAS is not the only season that brings the worm from the wood, but it becomes more noticeable during the last couple weeks of December each year. Reason for our vindictiveness is the annual thievery of Christmas decorations from Roundtown front yards. And it has started. First victims were the Randy Clarks, 630 Garden Parkway. Mrs. Clark told City Police a light bulb was missing from their Christmas decorations Monday morning. Also reporting missing decorations were Mrs. Otis Barker, 463 Watt St., Mrs. James Ford, 512 S. Court St., and Mrs. Charles Zwicker, 138 Rosewood Ave. Mrs. Barker noticed several light bulbs missing. Mrs. Ford complained that thieves had taken an extension cord and 25 light bulbs, and Mrs. Zwicker was victimized by the theft of 11 light bulbs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees, advised that President Nixon is ready to sign their compromise, are offering Congress a carefully drawn bill to clamp new controls on federal election campaign spending practices. If enacted, the legislation would be the first major reform of the much-condemned 1925 Corrupt Practices Act—generally characterized as more loophole than law.

"We've got a bill," announced Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, chief House participant in the talks, as he stepped from the privacy of a jammed conference-committee room Monday. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, trailing Hays out of the room, told reporters: "The President will sign this bill, I've been authorized to so indicate."

Scott said he had hoped to gain a Senate vote before Congress finishes the session's work this week. But Hays said: "We'll play it by ear. My thinking is it will be the first item of business when we get back" from the month-long recess between sessions.

A delay until late January, with the bill becoming effective 60 days after enactment, would mean it would not apply to such early presidential primaries as those in New Hampshire and Florida.

Hays, chairman of the House Administration Committee, and some other Democratic House leaders had indicated they feared Nixon might veto the legislation between sessions if Congress sent it to the White House before the recess.

True Observance Of Christmas Is Students' Goal

A true experience of Christmas — its background, customs, meaning — and a sharing knowledge with others is the project which had been underway for the faculty and student body of the George McDowell Exchange Building in the Logan Elm School District.

Students have experienced various preparations for Christmas — in school and at home — all their lives. Teachers at the exchange school, at the suggestion of Mrs. Dorothy Hamrick, chose to work with the students of the Logan Elm seventh and eighth grades this year so all could benefit from the knowledge and understanding of a "true" Christmas of the student and faculty's own making.

For the last twelve days of school, Christmas music has been played in the resource center of the Commons Area of the new building. Teachers have the option to have it in the classroom, also.

Students in many areas of instruction have been researching Christmas customs and patterns in many countries and cultures.

THE music department, under the direction of Miss Katie Wilson, has been learning and singing Christmas carols from many countries and studying the lives of some of their composers.

Dean Barr has been leading his math students in drawing and executing geometric shapes which can be used for design of Christmas ornaments. These designs have been reproduced by his students who are responsible for home-made tree decorations. In this way, the students have been learning about practical application of art and design in reference to holiday decorating.

Social studies, language arts and spelling classes have been pursuing studies on cultural patterns, both past and present, plus much vocabulary development of words and ideas of the season.

Boys and girls involved in the school's home economic program (boys and girls alike) are scheduled in classes of home ec., industrial arts and art throughout the year and are making up large batches of holiday cookies under the direction of Mrs. Lois Jones.

The full effect of this will be seen Friday afternoon at the McDowell Exchange Building with seventh and eighth graders participating in a special Christmas assembly. Students are also promoting a "Dress Up Day" at that time. All the student body is encouraged to come in dressy attire, an action which should enhance the atmosphere which they have been trying to create.

Students and faculty will enjoy the Friday afternoon social hour of their own planning which will climax these Twelve Days of Christmas for them.

The idea of the entire holiday study was conceived by Mrs. Hamrick to bring about a more meaningful observance of Christmas for the Logan Elm youngsters.

Gas Blast Cuts Portsmouth Line

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Portsmouth expected to be without natural gas for a number of hours today after an explosion in a United Fuel Gas Co. regulator station shortly before noon in nearby New Boston.

Two men sustained minor injuries in the blast which ripped out the side of a cinder-block building and set fire to two nearby houses.

Tom Hodgson, division plant foreman for the Ohio Valley Gas Co., said gas would be shut off to nearly all customers in the city, including industry, until the damage is repaired.

The fire in the regulator station was still burning at noon. Hodgson said the shutdown of gas service was necessary before the repairs could be made at the regulator station, and that the gas shutdown would not come until all customers received notice.

Planning Unit Reviews Plats

The Pickaway County Regional Planning commission met today making recommendations to two developers of housing subdivisions.

Michael Monst, who has a subdivision in Scioto Twp. of seven lots, presented a proposed plat for 13 additional lots. The commission informed Monst that any subdivision of 20 or more lots within a radius of 575 feet must have a central sewerage system and they recommended he investigate the possibility of installing such a system before submitting his plat to Pickaway County Commissioners for approval.

Worthy Spurlock requested that he be allowed to plat six additional lots to the Spurlock Subdivision, Walnut Twp. Tentative approval for the additional lots had been granted at the time the original subdivision plat was approved. The commission told him to have the six lots engineered and return with the final plat for approval.

Members of the planning commission are Don Archer, soil conservationist; Ned Harden, president of the regional planning and zoning authority; Henry McCrady, county engineer; Thoburn Blaney and Hugh Barnhill, representatives of the Pickaway County Board of Health, and Ray Sifford, engineer.

Nixon And Pompidou Agree Dollar Devaluation Needed

ANGRA DO HEROISMO, Azores (AP) — President Nixon and Frances Georges Pompidou agreed today to work for a devaluation of the dollar and revaluing of other currencies to achieve a realignment of the Western world's exchange rates.

A joint U.S.-French statement said the two presidents reached "a broad area of agreement on measures necessary to achieve an early settlement of the international monetary crisis."

"In cooperation with other nations they agreed to work toward a prompt realignment of exchange rates through a devaluation of the dollar and reevaluation of some other currencies, said a statement issued at the conclusion of the two-day talks here.

The statement also said the realignment of money parities "could be accompanied by broader permissible margins of fluctuation around the newly established exchange rates."

It did not specify any figures for the possible new parities.

Nixon emerged from the meeting and told newsmen before departing for Washington that "significant progress on the problems of the international monetary situation" was made.

Pompidou, speaking after Nixon, said: "I think we have well prepared the next meeting of the Group of Ten and that we will have brought constructive elements to the solution of the problems."

The Group of Ten is made up of the 10 richest non-Communist nations. It meets this coming weekend in Washington.

The joint statement said: "The two presidents are also aware of the importance of trade for a lasting equilibrium of the U.S. balance of payments."

Pompidou confirmed that France, together with governments of other member countries, is preparing the mandate which would permit the imminent opening of trade negotiations, the statement added.

Many Big Firms Hold Line On Hikes, Price Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Price Commission says almost 30 per cent of the nations 1,500 largest businesses have told him they hope to hold the line on prices.

C. Jackson Grayson, who called the firms last Nov. 27 asking them to state what they intend to do about prices, said Monday about 26 per cent have filed or say they intend to file requests for price increases.

The remainder of the firms have not answered, have not decided or weren't clear in their replies, Grayson said.

"I am especially gratified to see that almost half of the companies I have heard from to date plan to hold the line and, in some cases, even reduce their prices, the commission chairman said."

The 1,500 firms involved are those with more than $100 million a year in sales. The companies, which represent almost half of all sales in the economy, are required to seek Price Commission approval before raising prices.

Meanwhile, the commission received the recommendations of the Rent Advisory Board and is expected to decide rent control guidelines by Wednesday. There has been speculation the board would recommend permitting 2.5 per cent rent increases and letting landlords pass on to tenants additional costs such as property tax rises.

The commission also is expected to set health-cost guidelines by Wednesday.

The Pay Board is scheduled to begin review today of a United Auto Workers aerospace contract that reportedly calls for pay hikes of about 30 per cent over three years.

The Eastern, Southern and Western railway associations asked the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday to approve a 2.5 per cent across-the-board increase in freight rates effective Jan. 1, pending approval of a general rate hike.

The lines said they are so hard-pressed for cash that they need the surcharge soon even if they have to refund it later should the general increase request be turned down.

In Congress, a House-Senate conference committee approved legislation for a 13-week extension of unemployment benefits in states where 6.5 per cent of the labor force is without jobs.

Thateng, a way station on the North Vietnamese supply trail at the junctions of Routes 16 and 23, was captured by Laotian forces three weeks ago. The spokesman said the government force would carry out a "mobile defense on the northern edge of the Bolovens plateau."

North Vietnamese soldiers continue to pour supplies through the mountain passes on the border and into the Ho Chi Minh trail, sources said. Military sources in Vientiane said the traffic in the current dry season had increased to about the same level as last year.

Informants in Saigon said rains and overcast skies the past three days had restricted U.S. air strikes in the Laotian panhandle.

In northern Laos, U.S. Air Force planes dropped several 5,000-pound bombs in an attempt to bury about 30 North Vietnamese soldiers holed up in a cave, informed sources said.

The North Vietnamese were believed to have been returning from a reconnaissance mission near the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency's Long Cheng base when a Laotian patrol spotted them eight miles east of the base. The results of the air strikes were not immediately known.

Police Hunt Fugitives

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Police units combed a wooded area near here early today after two men wanted in the murder of a state trooper in Mifflin County last Friday were believed seen in the area.

State police, city police and units from neighboring areas went to the scene near Benton and Brighton Roads. Canine units were also called in.

Reports indicated the car stolen in Altoona containing two men fitting the descriptions of the suspects was spotted by a beat patrolman shortly after midnight.

Police said Bellevue units later located the car, and gave chase. The car then crashed, and the occupants fled on foot, authorities said.

The two were believed to be Mark Geddes, 22, and Charles Knisely, in his 20s, both of Altoona, wanted in the slayings of the trooper.

True Observance of Christmas Is Students' Goal

A true experience of Christmas — its background, customs, meaning — and a sharing knowledge with others is the project which has been underway for the faculty and student body of the George McDowell Exchange Building in the Logan Elm School District.

Students have experienced various preparations for Christmas — in school and at home — all their lives. Teachers at the exchange school, at the suggestion of Mrs. Dorothy Hamrick, chose to work with the students of the Logan Elm seventh and eighth grades this year so all could benefit from the knowledge and understanding of a "true" Christmas of the student and faculty's own making.

For the last twelve days of school, Christmas music has been played in the resource center of the Commons Area of the new building. Teachers have the option to have it in the classroom, also.

Students in many areas of instruction have been researching Christmas customs and patterns in many countries and cultures.

THE music department, under the direction of Miss Katie Wilson, has been learning and singing Christmas carols from many countries and studying the lives of some of their composers.

Dean Barr has been leading his math students in drawing and executing geometric shapes which can be used for design of Christmas ornaments. These designs have been reproduced by his students who are responsible for home-made tree decorations. In this way, the students have been learning about practical application of art and design in reference to holiday decorating.

Social studies, language arts and spelling classes have been pursuing studies on cultural patterns, both past and present, plus much vocabulary development of words and ideas of the season.

Boys and girls involved in the school's home economic program (boys and girls alike are scheduled in classes of home ec., industrial arts and art throughout the year) are making up large batches of holiday cookies under the direction of Mrs. Lois Jones.

The full effect of this will be seen Friday afternoon at the McDowell Exchange Building with seventh and eighth graders participating in a special Christmas assembly. Students are also promoting a "Dress Up Day" at that time. All the student body is encouraged to come in dressy attire, an action which should enhance the atmosphere which they have been trying to create.

Students and faculty will enjoy the Friday afternoon social hour of their own planning which will climax these Twelve Days of Christmas for them.

The idea of the entire holiday study was conceived by Mrs. Hamrick to bring about a more meaningful observance of Christmas for the Logan Elm youngsters.

Gas Blast Cuts Portsmouth Line

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Portsmouth expected to be without natural gas for a number of hours today after an explosion in a United Fuel Gas Co. regulator station shortly before noon in nearby New Boston.

Two men sustained minor injuries in the blast which ripped out the side of a cinder-block building and set fire to two nearby houses.

Tom Hodgson, division plant foreman for the Ohio Valley Gas Co., said gas would be shut off to nearly all customers in the city, including industry, until the damage is repaired.

The fire in the regulator station was still burning at noon. Hodgson said the shutdown of gas service was necessary before the repairs could be made at the regulator station, and that the gas shutdown would not come until all customers received notice.

What Readers Think About Invitation

—DEAR READERS: Yesterday I published the letter which I asked my readers to help me answer. Briefly, an employee was invited to a housewarming party by his boss, whose wife had been sent to Europe to die following cancer surgery. The boss's girlfriend moved in as soon as the sick wife moved out. The employee said if he didn't do he would lose his job. The wife disagreed. Should they go, or shouldn't they? I asked my readers. Here are some of the most quotable replies:

"Don't go. Instead, send them a donation to the American Cancer Society in his wife's name with the following message, 'Why a housewarming for you two? Wait a while. Where you will be spending eternity you won't need to warn anything.'" (Chicago Today, Man and wife.)

"Go, I think the boss rates an 'A' Plus for living the way he wants to without giving a damn what others think." (Male Seattle Times.)

"Whatever happened to decency and honor? Don't go, but make up an good excuse." (Male, Buffalo Courier-Express.)

"Don't go. Who needs this 'crumb-bum'? He's incapable of loyalty to either wife or employee." (Male, Philadelphia Bulletin.)

"Go. And don't prejudice. Just because the wife had cancer surgery doesn't qualify her for sainthood." (St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Female.)

"Don't go. I would rather support an unemployed husband than have him to work for such a rat!" (Omaha World-Herald.)

"Go! How others live is none of my business. My husband's job is!" (San Diego Union.)

"Don't go. A man has to have guts and principles if it costs him his job." (Milwaukee Sentinel, Man.)

"I'd find somebody with mumps and expose myself and my husband to them and say we're quarantined!" (Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

"Stay home! If the boss invited you and your wife to a weekend wife-swapping party, would you feel compelled to go?" (Atlanta Constitution.)

"Go. Why be a moralist? That's God's job!" (Louisville Courier, Female.)

"The trouble with society today is too many people are closing their eyes and holding their noses and going. Decline!" (Boston Record - American, Female.)

"I'd tell my boss to shove his invitation and I'd start job hunting!" (Male, D. Detroit News.)

"The husband should go and say his wife couldn't make it as she is dying of cancer, but she always lets him get away for a good cause." (Minneapolis Star, Male.)

"Go! Judge not, lest ye be judged." (Female, Portland Oregonian.)

"Go to the party. Not because your first consideration is to your husband, (what utter rot!) but because you refuse to sit in judgement of another human being." (Woman, Cincinnati Enquirer.)

"Why make waves?" (Woman, Washington Star.)

"Say hell no, we won't go!" (Male, Baltimore News.)

"Decline. Don't lie. Say you'll be out of town. Then leave town." (Female, Honolulu Star-Bulletin.)

"A boss with no loyalty to a wife would have no loyalty to his employees. I'd quit!" (Male, Kansas City Star.)

"Only in America do people put money before honor. Don't go." (Male, Rome Daily American.)

"Go. If Jesus could stand being in the company of thieves, prostitutes, and murders, it wouldn't hurt you to stand a couple of sinners for one evening." (Female, Hartford Times.)

"Not only would I not go, I'd contact everyone I thought might be invited, and boycott the party." (Female, Dallas Times Herald.)

"I'd go. If I accepted the hospitality of only those who were morally pure, I'd never go anywhere." (Male, Houston Post.)

"If we keep laying down with the dogs, the whole country will soon be full of fleas." (Female, Greenville, S.C., News.)

"We vote DON'T GO. We're sick of mud." (Some guys in Viet Nam.)

Nostalgia Wave Hits Toy Market

By CAROLE MARTIN
AP Business Writer —

NEW YORK (AP) — The nostalgia wave is likely to mean rag dolls, trains and classic games under the Christmas tree this year.

Besides new items like battery-operated Boeing 747's and games based on presidential politics, organized crime and ghetto situations, there appears to be a strong trend to the type of toys that delighted youngsters a score or more years ago.

Rag dolls are a good example. Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy have been around for 53 years, but this year they'll have lots of friends.

Sears Roebuck, which successfully introduced a cloth "Grandma" doll, brought out a companion "Grandpa" doll for 1971. Shindana Toys marketed a Flip Wilson-Geraldine Jones rag doll, named after the television comedian's girl character.

In still another movement to the past, Ideal Toys brought back Tiny Tears, a crying doll which delighted girls in the 1950s.

Strombecker said its Kewpie doll also is enjoying a revival. "It represents the old-fashioned innocence that the majority of American mothers—who remember the doll from their childhood—want to pass on to the kids today," a company spokesman said.

The latest advance in model railroading is the sound of a steam locomotive with the speed of the locomotive. Model Products which revived Lionel trains last year said production was increased 150 per cent in 1971 and 3,000 sets a day were being manufactured to meet demand.

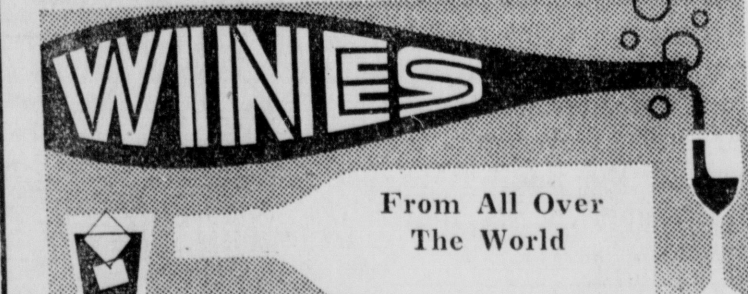

American Publishing Co. offers a series of jigsaw puzzles called Sports Heroes of Yester-lay depicting such legendary athletes as Jim Thorpe, Babe Ruth and John L. Sullivan.

Nostalgia, in fact, is a game—put out by Creative Communications & Research to test your remembrance of things past.

Monopoly, heading toward the 70-million-mark in sales; Scrabble and fashion dolls such as Barbie and her friends continue to be top sellers across the country.

For those who demand something really new, however, SOUL is a game for teen-agers, highlighting inner city situations; the Godfather game has players trying to gain control of the rackets in New York City; the Next President lets players run primary and general election campaigns for presidential hopefuls and Masterpiece is an art auction game using paintings from the Art Institute of Chicago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service released Sunday the following additional list of questions and answers in explanation of decisions and regulations by the Cost of Living Council, the Pay Board and the Price Commission:

Q: May a person who buys products for resale increase his price on such products if the costs of such products to him have increased because of the 10 per cent import surcharge?

A: Yes, such a person may increase his prices to offset the cost increases because of the 10 per cent import surcharge regardless of the effects of such an increase on his profit margin and without prenotifying or reporting such increases to the Price Commission.

Q: Did the Pay Board's delegation to the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee include the authority to grant approval on requests for wage and salary increases to employees in the building and construction industry not covered by collective bargaining agreements?

A: No.

Q: How can a corporation, individual proprietorship, or partnership obtain a ruling that a newly established or amended pension or profit-sharing plan does not exceed the 5.5 percent annual aggregate limitation?

A: IRS local service and compliance offices issue rulings of this type upon written request.

Q: Under Regulations 101.33 (b), it would appear that agricultural workers who earn less than $1.60 an hour are exempt from Phase 2 pay guidelines. Would a wage rise for such employees from $1.50 hr. to $2.00

hr. similarly be exempt under Phase 2 guidelines?

A: No. This initial wage increase would be exempt from the guidelines only up to $1.60 an hour. Once wages are increased to $1.60 per hour, further increases become subject to the guidelines.

Q: What is the base pay figure for any such further increase?

A: $1.60.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

What Readers Think About Invitation

—DEAR READERS: Yesterday I published the letter which I asked my readers to help me answer. Briefly, an employee was invited to a housewarming party by his boss, whose wife had been sent to Europe to die following cancer surgery. The boss's girlfriend moved in as soon as the sick wife moved out. The employee said if he didn't do he would lose his job. The wife disagreed. Should they go, or shouldn't they? I asked my readers. Here are some of the most quotable replies:

"Don't go. Instead, send them a donation to the American Cancer Society in his wife's name with the following message, 'Why a housewarming for you two? Wait a while. Where you will be spending eternity you will need to warm anything.'" (Chicago Today, Man and wife.)

"Go. I think the boss rates an 'A' Plus for living the way he wants to without giving a damn what others think." (Male Seattle Times.)

"Whatever happened to decency and honor? Don't go, but make up an good excuse." (Male, Buffalo Courier-Express.)

"Don't go. Who needs this 'crumb-bum'? He's incapable of loyalty to either wife or employee." (Male, Philadelphia Bulletin.)

"Go. And don't prejudice. Just because the wife had cancer surgery doesn't qualify her for sainthood." St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Female)

"Don't go. I would rather support an unemployed husband than have him to work for such a rat!" (Omaha World-Herald.)

"Go! How others live is none of my business. My husband's job is!" (San Diego Union.)

"Don't go. A man has to have guts and principles if it costs him his job." (Milwaukee Sentinel, Man.)

"I'd find somebody with mumps and expose myself and my husband to them and say we're quarantined!" (Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

"Stay home! If the boss invited you and your wife to a weekend wife-swapping party, would you feel compelled to go?" (Atlanta Constitution.)

"Go. Why be a moralist? That's God's job!" (Louisville Courier, Female.)

"The trouble with society today is too many people are closing their eyes and holding their noses and going, 'Decline'" (Boston Record - American, Female.)

"I'd tell my boss to shove his invitation and I'd start job hunting!" (Male, Detroit News.)

"The husband should go and say his wife couldn't make it as she is dying of cancer, but she always lets him get away for a good cause." (Minneapolis Star, Male.)

"Go! Judge not, lest ye be judged." (Female, Portland Oregonian.)

"Go to the party. Not because your first consideration is to your husband, (what utter rot!) but because you refuse to sit in judgement of another human being." (Woman, Cincinnati Enquirer.)

"Why make waves?" (Woman, Washington Star.)

"Say hell no, we won't go!" (Male, Baltimore News.)

"Decline. Don't lie. Say you'll be out of town. Then leave town." (Female, Honolulu Star-Bulletin.)

"A boss with no loyalty to a wife would have no loyalty to his employees. I'd quit!" (Male, Kansas City Star.)

"Only in America do people put money before honor. Don't go." (Male, Rome Daily American.)

"Go. If Jesus could stand being in the company of thieves, prostitutes, and murders, it wouldn't hurt you to stand a couple of sinners for one evening." (Female, Hartford Times.)

"Not only would I not go, I'd contact everyone I thought might be invited, and boycott the party." (Female, Dallas Times Herald.)

"I'd go. If I accepted the hospitality of only those who were morally pure, I'd never go anywhere." (Male, Houston Post.)

"If we keep laying down with the dogs, the whole country will soon be full of fleas." (Female, Greenville, S.C., News.)

"We vote DON'T GO. We're sick of mud." (Some guys in Viet Nam.)

Nostalgia Wave Hits Toy Market

By CAROLE MARTIN
AP Business Writer —

NEW YORK (AP) — The nostalgia wave is likely to mean rag dolls, trains and classic games under the Christmas tree this year.

Besides new items like battery-operated Boeing 747's and games based on presidential politics, organized crime and ghetto situations, there appears to be a strong trend to the type of toys that delighted youngsters a score or more years ago.

Rag dolls are a good example. Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy have been around for 53 years, but this year they'll have lots of friends.

Sears Roebuck, which successfully introduced a cloth "Grandma" doll, brought out a companion "Grandpa" doll for 1971. Shindana Toys marketed a Flip Wilson-Geraldine Jones rag doll, named after the television comedian's girl character.

In still another movement to the past, Ideal Toys brought back Tiny Tears, a crying doll which delighted girls in the 1950s.

Strombecker said its Kewpie doll also is enjoying a revival. "It represents the old-fashioned innocence that the majority of American mothers—who remember the doll from their childhood—want to pass on to the kids today," a company spokesman said.

The latest advance in model railroading is the sound of a steam locomotive. Model Products which revived Lionel trains last year said production was increased 150 per cent in 1971 and 3,000 sets a day were being manufactured to meet demand.

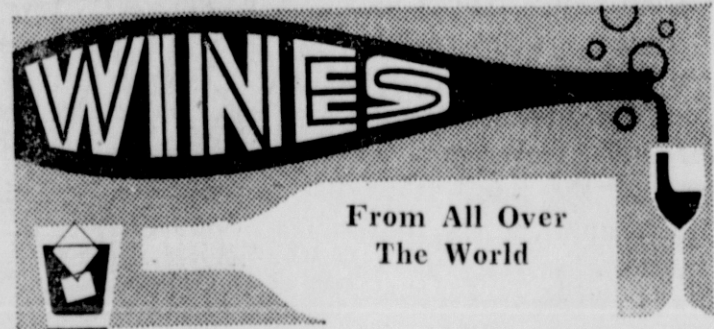

American Publishing Co. offers a series of jigsaw puzzles called Sports Heroes of Yester-

lay depicting such legendary athletes as Jim Thorpe, Babe Ruth and John L. Sullivan.

Nostalgia, in fact, is a game—put out by Creative Communications & Research to test your remembrance of things past.

Monopoly, heading toward the 70-million-mark in sales; Scrabble and fashion dolls such as Barbie and her friends continue to be top sellers across the country.

For those who demand something really new, however, SOUL is a game for teen-agers, highlighting inner city situations; the Godfather game has players trying to gain control of the rackets in New York City; the Next President lets players run primary and general election campaigns for presidential hopefuls and Masterpiece is an art auction game using paintings from the Art Institute of Chicago.

Study Bonuses

What happens when parents and teachers are paid bonuses to improve the performance of their children in school? Under a $770,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education, four American cities are experimenting with the idea to see whether two basic skills — reading and arithmetic — can be improved through cash incentives.

It is a controversial experiment, because it assumes teachers will work a little harder if offered a bonus incentive and parents will pay more attention to their children if offered a cash reward. Even the project director admits the idea sounds like a bribe to get parents and teachers to do what they should be doing on their own.

Proponents of the idea seem to be oblivious to criticism. They feel that if the hoped-for results are obtained the methods used are not that important. Basically, the method employed in the experiment is to program at the beginning of a term the progress a class should make through a series of tests and comparisons with others of similar ages.

Standardized tests at the end of the term measure the class progress. Teachers are rewarded up to $1,200 per class and parents up to $100 each, according to the average class results. The goal of scholastic improvement is a noble one, but the idea that cash awards for everyone involved in the learning process but the pupil is the way to meet that goal needs more thorough examination.

Used Plane Glut

There was a time when discarded American aircraft were grabbed in quick order by other countries. Because of the rapid turnover in aircraft in the United States, almost any second-hand American airliner was superior to the craft used by many other airlines.

That was the way it formerly was. But conditions have changed, and today there is a glut of jet airliners — 400, by one estimate — sitting idle on lots waiting for buyers. Several years ago, the number available was no more than 100. Insurance and storage costs must be tremendous.

What brought on the depression in the market for jet airliners with many flying hours of comfortable service left in them was the advent of the jumbo jet.

Various versions of this jumbo craft have been added to the American fleets so rapidly that the floor simply was knocked out from under the used jet market.

Several other factors have further complicated the used plane market. The monetary crisis has put a damper on the ability of European buyers to finance their purchases. The sharp reduction in transport of men and materiel to Vietnam has eliminated a thriving market in that area.

Unlike the used car market, used aircraft generally do not depreciate rapidly with age. But now some used airliners are down 75 per cent in price in two years.

With an estimated one billion dollars worth of jet airliners available, bargains abound. For anyone with a few million idle dollars, that is.

Rough Duty Of Viet War: Death Notification Detail

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wars rage on in the minds of men who saw the slaughter, but Vietnam leaves another breed of soldier with memories equally grim: the messengers of death.

Their are visions not of the fighting, but of the front porch. Not of comrades dying, but of women crying and children bewildered. Not of heroism under fire, but the anguish of a father deprived of his son.

As laid down by the book, the task has been simple. The speech, rarely necessary, is short, if brutal: "It is my duty to inform you of the death in Vietnam of..."

"But you don't have to say it," recalls one former "notification officer." "They see you and they know."

"You can't help but get emotionally involved," says another, Army Chaplain Ralph Willers of nearby Ft. McNair.

"It's led to any number of poignant, tragic, heroic, and at times disgusting displays," Willers, who has delivered the tidings on 34 occasions. "If you want to see the frailties of mankind, pull that kind of duty."

Ask almost any man who has pulled it, and he will tell you it was the most torturous experience of his soldiering life.

"The thing that gets to you worst is that you look at these people and you can see your own mother and father in the same situation," says Army Maj. Eugene Fudge, who commanded a combat helicopter battalion in Vietnam.

Chaplain Willers, a lieutenant-colonel who also is fully familiar with the sight of men dying on the battlefield, observes that "When you see a man killed, there is a total, utter finality to it."

"But when you go to the family, it's much worse. Because you walk in and recognize tragedy is now just beginning for them."

The military-wide system of personal notification is unique to the war in Indochina, although it since has been expanded to include domestic and other non-combat deaths as well.

At that, it wasn't until the war heated up in 1966—and after a public furor spurred by Army wives at Ft. Benning, GA.—that the Pentagon re-

WEDNESDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Certainly no day or evening to take any chances. You would be wise to stick close to the accepted and conventional. Let others know you realize there are moments to keep mum until sure that what you want to say is accurate and will be appreciated by all.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't jump into some new interest without first studying them well, just because you are an impulsive person. This could lead to much trouble otherwise. Make your plans wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It would not be wise to try to avoid responsibilities you have assumed or you get into real hot water. An expert could desert you, also. Don't take risks of any sort. Try to build up ego of loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Associates could demand a good deal now but do not lose your temper and do only those things that are wise and necessary. Show you have tact, especially with one who is in a dither. Have fun tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan your time well so you get all your duties handled easily and without complaint. Co-workers are studying you, so give them no cause for criticism. Have fun with friends in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try not to gamble or go off on any tangents whatever and stick to what is tried and true instead. Show more affection to mate and get better results. Practical jokes are taboo right now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get busy and handle those problems at home. Fretting and fussing do no good. You have to make some sacrifice for the sake of peace, but it will be worth it. Watch TV in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't chicken out where some promise you have made is concerned, but carry through with character. Try not to rush when driving, or you get into trouble. Take the atmospheric conditions into consideration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Avoid giving the impression that you are greedy in going after your aims, interests today, or others make a wide berth around you. Help others to straighten out whatever is not right for them. Gain their appreciation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are in the mood to lambast one who is a close tie, do not do it, but try to see the matter in a truer light. Than later make kind comments. Do whatever will make your health more robust.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) That plan you have requires proper preparation before you can make it work to your benefit. Then you can start work on it in the morning. Listen to the voice of your intuition which can be very helpful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do not take chances with new acquaintances who might have an eye on your assets, but be loyal to those who are tried and true. Avoid going to parties that could not be your kind at all. Early to bed in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use wisdom today and do nothing that could ruin your reputation you have so carefully built up. Make sure you pay any indebtedness quickly and avoid further expense. Build up your credit rating.

Joker In 1972

By JEFFERY HART

In both the 1960 and 1968 Presidential elections the Communists intervened, so to speak, in favor of the Democratic nominee. The question about 1972 is not whether they will intervene, but when and how. In 1960, as he revealed in his memoirs, Nikita Khrushchev in effect voted for John F. Kennedy. The Russians were holding U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, while we had captured Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel, and an exchange was in the works. Khrushchev deliberately held back until after the election. As he explained to Kennedy at Vienna, and also in his memoirs, he did not want Richard Nixon to be able to point to the swap as evidence that he could "deal with the Russians." In a close election like 1960, as Khrushchev shrewdly pointed out, this Soviet ploy might have made the difference.

The Communist ploy in 1968 was even more carefully conceived. All summer, the Paris peace talks had been stalemated, the North Vietnamese demanding an unconditional halt to the bombing, the South Vietnamese insisting that the quid pro quo be an equivalent agreement that their own cities be guaranteed against attack.

During the first week of October, as the election drew near, meetings took place in New York between Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, and other meetings occurred in Paris. The Soviets began to unmask that the South Vietnamese condition which he could then interpret as a vindication of his Presidency.

The Soviets, however, were trumped by Saigon, which on Nov. 2 "regretted" that it could not go alone on the deal. President Thieu, in effect, voted for Nixon. There were last-minute reports of massive infiltration because of the bombing halt. A swing back to Nixon began just before the voting.

These are the two Presidential examples, though there are other recent examples of the last-minute surprise factor. Nixon himself was beaten in the 1962 California election because he was hurt by the Cuban missile crisis. In 1969, LBJ hoped to blanket the news at the last minute by staging a big conference in Manila, but Nixon met this ploy shrewdly, and by raising embarrassing questions discomfited LBJ and swung the election toward the GOP. The 1970 election, which was shadowed by a crisis over Suez, permitted Nixon to visit the Sixth Fleet and polish his Presidential image.

What will it be in 1972? Nixon, Chou En-lai and the Soviets are all experienced campaigners concerned, and you can be sure the various ploys are in advanced stages of preparation.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

The House has passed a bill very similar to a Senate bill to extend and amend the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970.

In essence the bills would give the President authority to continue his Phase II program freezing wages, salaries, rents and prices.

Included in controls not previously imposed would be dividends and interest.

The program will continue to be administered by Pay Board and Price Commission.

I opposed the bill as it came from committee because it contained a provision granting retroactive wage increases. It seems to me the Senate language granting the Pay Board some discretion in this area was preferable.

Since House and Senate differences are not great, it is expected the bill will be sent to the President without much delay.

On Tuesday, by a vote of 210 yeas to 186 nays, the House agreed to the conference report on the Economic Opportunity Amendments of 1971. The Senate had previously acted favorably. The President has now vetoed the bill.

The bill authorizes funds for the Office of Economic Opportunity for an additional two years, creates a Legal Service Corporation to replace present OEO legal programs for the poor, and creates a comprehensive new child development program. The highly controversial program for children would build on existing child care programs, such as Head Start, to provide and subsidize funds for children of the middle class. The day care provided for children of working mothers would be far beyond mere custodial care.

Service would be free for children from families of four with income less than $4,320 a year. Families with high income would pay for the service on a sliding scale basis.

For the first full year of operation $2 billion has been authorized. As is the case with most government welfare programs this figure undoubtedly will mushroom rapidly. I have voted for previous authorizations for the OEO program. But, the fact that the states would be bypassed in the administration of this child care program, and the danger that the Federal Government would usurp many legitimate parental prerogatives associated with rearing a child caused me to vote no on this package.

I believe these are valid criticisms, especially the one concerning the danger of governmental attempts to influence child behavior through a program that will far exceed custodial care for children of working parents. I will vote to sustain the Presidential veto.

The House voted to appropriate $2.8 billion for foreign aid and related programs. This amount is $1.5 million less than the administration's request. The bill would also prohibit further aid to India and Pakistan except for humanitarian reasons, while these nations are in armed conflict with each other.

The foreign aid authorization bill has been held up in a House-Senate conference over a dispute concerning a provision to end the Vietnam War in six months subject to the release of American prisoners. Although, supposedly, Congress cannot appropriate funds before they are authorized, the bill reported from the committee contains a waiver of this requirement.

Study Bonuses

What happens when parents and teachers are paid bonuses to improve the performance of their children in school? Under a $770,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education, four American cities are experimenting with the idea to see whether two basic skills — reading and arithmetic — can be improved through cash incentives.

It is a controversial experiment, because it assumes teachers will work a little harder if offered a bonus incentive and parents will pay more attention to their children if offered a cash reward. Even the project director admits the idea sounds like a bribe to get parents and teachers to do what they should be doing on their own.

Proponents of the idea seem to be oblivious to criticism. They feel that if the hoped-for results are obtained the methods used are not that important. Basically, the method employed in the experiment is to program at the beginning of a term the progress a class should make through a series of tests and comparisons with others of similar ages.

Standardized tests at the end of the term measure the class progress. Teachers are rewarded up to $1,200 per class and parents up to $100 each, according to the average class results. The goal of scholastic improvement is a noble one, but the idea that cash awards for everyone involved in the learning process but the pupil is the way to meet that goal needs more thorough examination.

Used Plane Glut

There was a time when discarded American aircraft were grabbed in quick order by other countries. Because of the rapid turnover in aircraft in the United States, almost any second-hand American airliner was superior to the craft used by many other airlines.

That was the way it formerly was. But conditions have changed, and today there is a glut of jet airliners — 400, by one estimate — sitting idle on lots waiting for buyers. Several years ago, the number available was no more than 100. Insurance and storage costs must be tremendous.

What brought on the depression in the market for jet airliners with many flying hours of comfortable service left in them was the advent of the jumbo jet.

Various versions of this jumbo craft

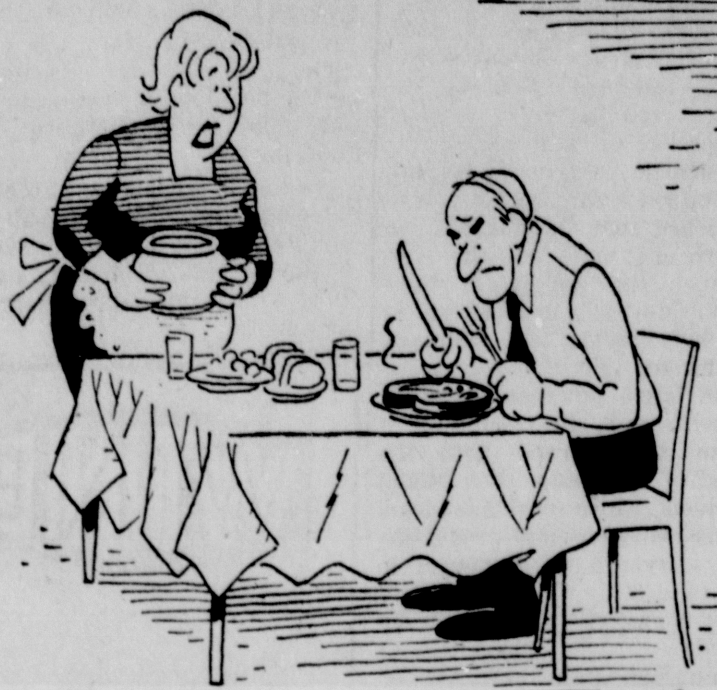

have been added to the American fleets so rapidly that the floor simply was knocked out from under the used jet market.

Several other factors have further complicated the used plane market. The monetary crisis has put a damper on the ability of European buyers to finance their purchases. The sharp reduction in transport of men and materiel to Vietnam has eliminated a thriving market in that area.

Unlike the used car market, used aircraft generally do not depreciate rapidly with age. But now some used airliners are down 75 per cent in price in two years.

With an estimated one billion dollars worth of jet airliners available, bargains abound. For anyone with a few million idle dollars, that is.

I was shocked to learn that some children are born heroin addicts.

Does this mean that drug addiction is a hereditary condition?

Mr. N.U.A., Mexico

Dear Mr. A.: It is shocking and terrifying, but true, that hundreds of children are born each year as heroin addicts.

Let me clarify a misconception. This is not a hereditary condition passed on through the mother's genes or the chromosomes to the child.

Women heroin addicts rarely tell their doctors about their addiction for fear of prosecution. The result is that a heroin intoxication is passed on to the unborn child through the mother's bloodstream.

It is interesting, too, that this occurs despite the fact that the mother's blood does not ever mingle directly with the blood of the unborn child's.

For years, many children were found dead in their cribs shortly after birth without any logical explanation for the calamity.

Now it is known that unexplained symptoms of the newly born child, such as poor breathing, trembling, twitching, convulsions, and rapid respirations, may be due to withdrawal symptoms of the child deprived of the heroin he was accustomed to before birth.

These children can be kept alive if the mother's heroin addiction has been uncovered before the birth of the child.

Doctors are exceedingly careful in searching for evidence that the mother is taking heroin.

If the mother is not an addict, but the father is, the child is not born with this horrendous problem.

The effect of drug abuse with amphetamines, LSD, and barbiturates is recognized as a distinct hazard to the unborn child.

The danger of marijuana during pregnancy is under constant surveillance by health authorities.

All drugs, addictive and non-addictive, must be avoided as much as possible during pregnancy.

I thought gonorrhea was a temporary illness that caused no complication.

I now know better and I wish I could tell buddies of my age that it has left both of my knees crippled for life.

Mr. X., Ala.

Dear Mr. X.: I'm sorry that you had to learn this the hard way.

Despite exhaustive public health campaigns for young people, many still believe that gonorrhea is a simple "youthful experience" of no importance.

With active treatment immediately after exposure, the gonococcus germ can most often be kept under control.

When neglected, this germ can invade the joints of the knee, the wrist, and the ankle, and can cause a permanent

Joker In 1972

By JEFFERY HART

In both the 1960 and 1968 Presidential elections the Communists intervened, so to speak, in favor of the Democratic nominee. The question about 1972 is not whether they will intervene, but when and how. In 1960, as he revealed in his memoirs, Nikita Khrushchev in effect voted for John F. Kennedy. The Russians were holding U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, while we had captured Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel, and an exchange was in the works. Khrushchev deliberately held back until after the election. As he explained to Kennedy at Vienna, and also in his memoirs, he did not want Richard Nixon to be able to point to the swap as evidence that he could "deal with the Russians." In a close election like 1960, as Khrushchev shrewdly pointed out, this Soviet ploy might have made the difference.

The Communist ploy in 1968 was even more carefully conceived. All summer, the Paris peace talks had been stalemate, the North Vietnamese demanding an unconditional halt to the bombing, the South Vietnamese insisting that the quid pro quo be an equivalent agreement that their own cities be guaranteed against attack.

During the first week of October, as the election drew near, meetings took place in New York between Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, and other meetings occurred in Paris. The Soviets began to unmask that the South Vietnamese condition could be met in return for a bombing halt. The result was that President Johnson announced such a bombing halt on October 31, a few days before the voting and initiated a sharp swing toward Humphrey.

One crucial question involves the timing of this sequence. Who was determining the rate of forward motion, zeroing in on late October? The initiative, by all indications, came from the Soviets, and the conclusion therefore must be that they calculated that they would be better off with a Nixon defeat, and programmed the pace of the secret negotiations so as to allow the announcement to be made just before the election, when it would most benefit Humphrey.

The Soviets, however, had to make two supplementary calculations, one of which they won, and one of which they lost. They had to bet that LBJ would in fact make the announcement before rather than after the election. Had LBJ waited, and allowed the winner, either Hubert Humphrey or Richard Nixon, to make the announcement, the new President would have been much better positioned politically. But the Russians were correct: LBJ opted for a Democratic victory, which he could then interpret as a vindication of his Presidency.

The Soviets, however, were trumped by Saigon, which on Nov. 2 "regretted" that it could not go alone on the deal. President Thieu, in effect, voted for Nixon. There were last-minute reports of massive infiltration because of the bombing halt. A swing back to Nixon began just before the voting.

These are the two Presidential examples, though there are other recent examples of the last-minute surprise factor. Nixon himself was beaten in the 1962 California election because he was hurt by the Cuban missile crisis. In 1969, LBJ hoped to blanket the news at the last minute by staging a big conference in Manila, but Nixon met this ploy shrewdly, and by raising embarrassing questions discomfited LBJ and swung the election toward the GOP. The 1970 election, which was shadowed by a crisis over Suez, permitted Nixon to visit the Sixth Fleet and polish his Presidential image.

What will it be in 1972? Nixon, Chou En-lai and the Soviets are all experienced campaigners concerned, and you can be sure the various ploys are in advanced stages of preparation.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE

The House has passed a bill very similar to a Senate bill to extend and amend the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970.

In essence the bills would give the President authority to continue his Phase II program freezing wages, salaries, rents and prices.

Included in controls not previously imposed would be dividends and interest.

The program will continue to be administered by Pay Board and Price Commission.

I opposed the bill as it came from committee because it contained a provision granting retroactive wage increases. It seems to me the Senate language granting the Pay Board some discretion in this area was preferable.

Rough Duty Of Viet War: Death Notification Detail

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wars rage on in the minds of men who saw the slaughter, but Vietnam leaves another breed of soldier with memories equally grim: the messengers of death.

There are visions not of the fighting, but of the front porch. Not of comrades dying, but of women crying and children bewildered. Not of heroism under fire, but the anguish of a father deprived of his son.

As laid down by the book, the task has been simple. The speech, rarely necessary, is short, if brutal: "It is my duty to inform you of the death in Vietnam of..."

"But you don't have to say it," recalls one former "notification officer." "They see you and they know."

"You can't help but get emotionally involved," says another, Army Chaplain Ralph Willers of nearby Ft. McNair.

"It's led to any number of poignant, tragic, heroic, and at times disgusting displays," Willers, who has delivered the tidings on 34 occasions. "If you want to see the frailties of mankind, pull that kind of duty."

Ask almost any man who has pulled it, and he will tell you it was the most torturous experience of his soldiering life.

"The thing that gets to you worst is that you look at these people and you can see your own mother and father in the same situation," says Army Maj. Eugene Fudge, who commanded a combat helicopter battalion in Vietnam.

Chaplain Willers, a lieutenant-colonel who also is fully familiar with the sight of men dying on the battlefield, observes that "When you see a man killed, there is a total, utter finality to it."

"But when you go to the family, it's much worse. Because you walk in and recognize tragedy is now just beginning for them."

The military-wide system of personal notification is unique to the war in Indochina, although it since has been expanded to include domestic and other non-combat deaths as well.

At that, it wasn't until the war heated up in 1966—and after a public furor spurred by Army wives at Ft. Benning, GA.—that the Pentagon replaced the old practice of relaying bad news to relatives by commercial telegram.

Even with the drop in U.S. war casualties, there still are many instances each week in which a pilot, tank commander or a supply sergeant must face up to the grisly duty of bringing emotional devastation into the home of a man he did not know.

Apollo Booster Moved To Pad

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 16 rocket and spaceships made their first move toward the moon Monday as a slow 3½-mile trip from the assembly building to the launch pad.

Apollo 16 command module pilot Thomas K. Mattingly II watched from a viewing stand a few hundred feet away as the Saturn 5 nudged out of its hangar. Perched atop the booster were the command and lunar ships.

Once at the launch pad later today, crews will begin an extensive three-month checkout leading to a scheduled March 17 launch date.

NOBEL PRIZE — Aase Lionaes, chairman of the Nobel Peace Prize committee, presents the Nobel Peace Prize at Oslo, Norway to West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has developed its own holiday customs. Among them are the Christmas programs, most designed for young viewers, and the networks collect them and bring them out each year for another broadcast.

In recent days there have been repeat showings of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," "The Littlest Angel," "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and "Frosty, the Snow Man." Coming up tonight is "The Little Drummer Boy," and there will be more before the holiday season is over.

Networks appreciate programs that can be repeated year after year—so much of their product gets one or two exposures and then disappears. Programs like the Charlie Brown series seem to be as indestructible as redwood trees—charming adults on the second and even fifth time around while new young viewers are added to the audience.

In the most recent Nielsen ratings, ABC's repeat of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" ranked fifth in the popularity list, and CBS's "Frosty the Snowman" was sixth. Both did better than "Gunsmoke."

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" seems to fascinate producers, animators and others involved in entertainment. Each Christmas there is a surge of "Christmas Carol" reruns—old movies, cartoons and readings.

The best of Dickens "A Christmas Carol" may be yet to come. ABC's Chuck Jones, the triple Oscar winner who is now in charge of upgrading the network's children's programming, has produced a half-hour program which, judging from some bits and pieces glimpsed in advance, promises to be a classic of animation.

Richard Williams, the artist who created the animated battle sequences of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," has worked with the original steel plate illustrations used when the story was first printed in 1840. As a result, the drawn, animated figures look very much like the original drawings by John Leach. Jones had Sir Michael Redgrave as narrator and Alastair Sim as Scrooge's voice.

It will be seen on the network Dec. 21—while executive producer Jones is dreaming of another project. He wants Williams to use the Tenniel illustrations for an animated "Alice Through the Looking Glass." Jones, who produced "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," said the half-hour, British-made program of the Dickens work cost about $300,000.

"That may seem like a lot," he said. "Actually 'Grinch' cost something like $10,000 or $18,000 per minute, but this last broadcast was its sixth. It has shown a profit for the past four reruns."

Stans Interest In Thai Firm Sparks Question Of Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private foundation controlled by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans has acquired since he took office an interest in a Thailand paper company which directly benefits from U.S. government cash and other assistance.

In response to written questions from the Associated Press, Stans called the $24,302 investment in Siam Kraft Paper Co. "very minor," said he got no income from the Stans Foundation, and "couldn't conceive" of any tax breaks normally associated with such foundations as being available to him.

"There is nothing whatsoever in this situation that could conceivably involve conflict of interest," Stans said.

Disclosure of Stans' involvement in the Thailand company, founded on a $14-million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank, and extended last year, marks the second time in recent months that questions have been raised about the secretary's financial holdings.

In February it was disclosed he held a $318,000 interest in a Penn Central subsidiary at the time his department was engaged in secret negotiations to save the railroad from bankruptcy.

At that time, Stans said he had disqualified himself from efforts to help Penn Central after attending one high-level meeting.

Tax returns for the Stans Foundation, which list Stans as president and his wife and four children as directors, show it acquired 2,667 shares of Siam Kraft in 1969 when the company was chaired by a Thai major general, managed by an American consulting firm and headed for large initial operating losses.

It got the shares from another Nixon appointee, Henry Kearns, president of the Export-Import Bank.

Snow, Rain Cover Parts Of Far West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and rain chilled large parts of the West today, but dry weather predominated east of the Mississippi.

A storm system over New Mexico brought travel warnings from Arizona to Nebraska and a winter storm watch as far northeast as Iowa.

Over half a foot of snow fell in the mountains of the Southwest. Pagosa Springs, Colo., was blanketed by 18 inches of new snow.

Snow also whitened the northern Rockies and the Blue Mountains of eastern Oregon. Travel warnings for the Oregon storm were posted as far east as northern Idaho and western Montana.

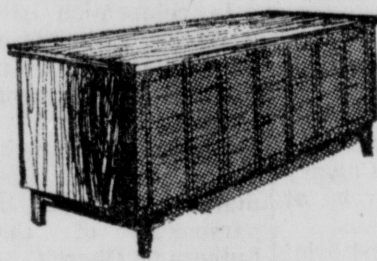

Rain dampened the northern Pacific Coast and the central Great Plains, while scattered snow fell from the Dakotas to northwest Wisconsin.

Although clear skies were the rule east of the Mississippi, mild weather was confined to the Gulf Coast states.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has developed its own holiday customs. Among them are the Christmas programs, most designed for young viewers, and the networks collect them and bring them out each year for another broadcast.

In recent days there have been repeat showings of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," "The Littlest Angel," "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and "Frosty, the Snow Man." Coming up tonight is "The Little Drummer Boy," and there will be more before the holiday season is over.

Networks appreciate programs that can be repeated year after year—so much of their product gets one or two exposures and then disappears. Programs like the Charlie Brown series seem to be as indestructible as redwood trees—charming adults on the second and even fifth time around while new young viewers are added to the audience.

In the most recent Nielsen ratings, ABC's repeat of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" ranked fifth in the popularity list, and CBS' "Frosty the Snowman" was sixth. Both did better than "Gunsmoke."

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" seems to fascinate producers, animators and others involved in entertainment. Each Christmas there is a surge of "Christmas Carol" reruns—old movies, cartoons and readings.

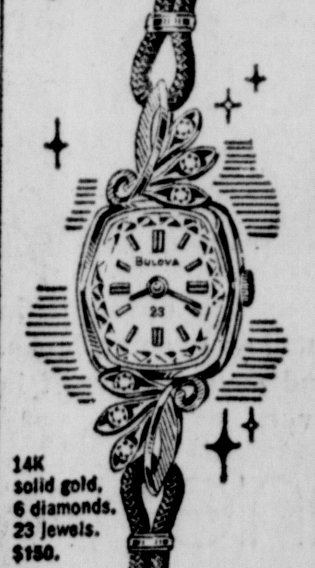

The best of Dickens "A Christmas Carol" may be yet to come. ABC's Chuck Jones, the triple Oscar winner who is now in charge of upgrading the

Bill Would Exempt Pensions From Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-12, Tiffin, said Monday he would introduce a bill to exempt all pensions and retirement incomes from the state income tax bill passed Friday.

The bill, which calls for a 5 to 3.5 per cent personal income tax, exempts retired state government employees from its provisions. The tax would have to be paid however, on all private and retired federal employee pensions, except railroad retirement plans.

Stans Interest In Thai Firm Sparks Question Of Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private foundation controlled by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans has acquired since he took office an interest in a Thailand paper company which directly benefits from U.S. government cash and other assistance.

In response to written questions from the Associated Press, Stans called the $24,302 investment in Siam Kraft Paper Co. "very minor," said he got no income from the Stans Foundation, and "couldn't conceive" of any tax breaks normally associated with such foundations as being available to him.

"There is nothing whatsoever in this situation that could conceivably involve conflict of interest," Stans said.

Disclosure of Stans' involvement in the Thailand company, founded on a $14-million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank, and extended last year, marks the second time in recent months that questions have been raised about the secretary's financial holdings.

In February it was disclosed he held a $318,000 interest in a Penn Central subsidiary at the time his department was engaged in secret negotiations to save the railroad from bankruptcy.

At that time, Stans said he had disqualified himself from efforts to help Penn Central after attending one high-level meeting.

Tax returns for the Stans Foundation, which list Stans as president and his wife and four children as directors, show it acquired 2,667 shares of Siam Kraft in 1969 when the company was chaired by a Thai major general, managed by an American consulting firm and headed for large initial operating losses.

It got the shares from another Nixon appointee, Henry Kearns, president of the Export-Import Bank.

SYMBOLS — Bob Porter of Porter's Dry Cleaning and Laundry is shown with a poster urging people to sign the petitions which will be sent to the Federal Trade Commission to hopefully have manufacturers of textiles "Tell It Like It Is" with sewn-in labels on garments. The chart Mr. Porter is pointing to shows symbols that could be used internationally to indicate the proper care of all textiles.

Stitched-In Label Drive Underway By Ohio Drycleaners Association

Ohio Drycleaners Association is sponsoring a "Permanent Care Labelling" program in the state and are pleading for support. The goal is to have manufacturers of textile garments "Tell It Like It Is" about the performance of the items they are manufacturing. If the item is drycleanable as well as washable the label should indicate this fact.

A petition to Federal Trade Commission is asking that proper labelling be made by clothing manufacturers with stitched in labels giving all vital information.

Such a regulation would eliminate a great percentage of garment losses due to improper cleaning methods thus aiding both homemakers and dry cleaners.

There are many schools of thought as to how the labelling should be accomplished. In Europe and other foreign countries symbols are being used. Canada is promoting color coded symbols. Many manufacturers in the United States think the labelling should be printed in English. Members of the Ohio Dry Cleaners Association don't have any preference as long as the manufacturers "Tell It Like It Is."

Present labelling for the most part is limited to tied or pinned-on tags with new clothing. Many refer only to the content or the fiber and not cleaning instructions. After the labels are removed the proper methods for cleaning are lost.

Labels that are now being sewn in garments indicating a wash and wear, dry clean only, use no bleach or other very brief information are confusing.

The ever increasing number of new fabrics to be considered adds to the confusion. Synthetics have found their way in the material world presenting a new adventure to the fashion scene and new problems in cleaning.

An international code of symbols in labelling may solve many problems due to the increased travelling now being easily accomplished by many people.

Symbols suggested include a Devotions will be directed by Miss Lucille Kirkwood, Mrs. James Cassidy and Mrs. Leroy Thomas.

Calvary Youth Fellowship Collects Food

Youth Fellowship of Calvary United Methodist Church conducted a canvas of the immediate community Sunday evening to collect food to help needy families during the Christmas season.

There were 22 members gathered at the church for identification tags and routes from which to conduct their food collection. Youth director, Linda Wicker, assigned the routes and Pastor Roy Osborn sent the youth on their way after he led them in prayer.

After one and a half hours, the group gathered back in the church basement and had collected 222 cans of food and $1 in money.

Mrs. Bill Ankrom served the youth group with hot chocolate and homemade cookies. Bobby Hively had devotions and read the Scripture from Luke 2:15. He said "If He Had Not Come." There would have been no Christmas, there would have been no revelation of God in understandable human hearts, there would have been no living faith to encourage us each new day, there would have been no everlasting doctrine of Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men. Following devotions games were conducted by Rance Wolfe.

Members present were Rance Wolfe, David and Dan DeLong, Bobby Hively, Rick Crawford, Sandy and Brenda Cain, Chris and Chuck Hamilton, Tammy Welliver, Naniisa Anderson, Roy Osborn, Nita and Vicki Whaley, Teresa Ankrom, Jerry Burgess, Tracy Ward, Vicky and Teresa Gilmore, Roberta Adams, Barbara Bach and David Wilson.

Stitched-In Label Drive Underway By Ohio Drycleaners Association

Ohio Drycleaners Association is sponsoring a "Permanent Care Labelling" program in the state and are pleading for support. The goal is to have manufacturers of textile garments "Tell It Like It Is" about the performance of the items they are manufacturing. If the item is drycleanable as well as washable the label should indicate this fact.

A petition to Federal Trade Commission is asking that proper labelling be made by clothing manufacturers with stitched in labels giving all vital information.

Such a regulation would eliminate a great percentage of garment losses due to improper cleaning methods thus aiding both homemakers and dry cleaners.

There are many schools of thought as to how the labelling should be accomplished. In Europe and other foreign countries symbols are being used. Canada is promoting color coded symbols. Many manufacturers in the United States think the labelling should be printed in English. Members of the Ohio Dry Cleaners Association don't have any preference as long as the manufacturers "Tell It Like It Is."

Present labelling for the most part is limited to tied or pinned-on tags with new clothing. Many refer only to the content or the fiber and not cleaning instructions. After the labels are removed the proper methods for cleaning are lost.

Labels that are now being sewn in garments indicating a wash and wear, dry clean only, use no bleach or other very brief information are confusing.

The ever increasing number of new fabrics to be considered adds to the confusion. Synthetics have found their way in the material world presenting a new adventure to the fashion scene and new problems in cleaning.

An international code of symbols in labelling may solve many problems due to the increased travelling now being easily accomplished by many people.

Symbols suggested include a tub indicating whether or not it may be used and if so at what temperature, and if it may be machine washable in hot water.

Other symbols would indicate the use of bleach, drying, if not to iron or at what temperature and exactly how dry cleaning should be done.

An international coding of instructions may be a thing of the future for us or could well be done soon. But, as the Ohio Drycleaners Association feels, it is an important step right now to get the manufacturers to "tell it like it is" with some type of stitched-in labelling.

Locally Porter's Laundry and Dry Cleaning and Barnhill's Dry Cleaning and Laundry, both members of the Ohio Drycleaners Association, have petitions to be signed which will be given to the Federal Trade Commission by one of our Congressmen. Everyone is urged to sign the petition for protection of their own garments both at home and at dry cleaners.

Berger Hospital Guild 45 plans to meet 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Richard Hansen, Route 3. A Christmas gift exchange will follow the business meeting.

Calvary Youth Fellowship Collects Food

Youth Fellowship of Calvary United Methodist Church conducted a canvas of the immediate community Sunday evening to collect food to help needy families during the Christmas season.

There were 22 members gathered at the church for identification tags and routes from which to conduct their food collection. Youth director, Linda Wicker, assigned the routes and Pastor Roy Osborn sent the youth on their way after he led them in prayer.

After one and a half hours, the group gathered back in the church basement and had collected 222 cans of food and $1 in money.

Mrs. Bill Ankrom served the youth group with hot chocolate and homemade cookies. Bobby Hively had devotions and read the Scripture from Luke 2:15. He said "If He Had Not Come." There would have been no Christmas, there would have been no revelation of God in understandable human hearts, there would have been no living faith to encourage us each new day, there would have been no everlasting doctrine of Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men. Following devotions games were conducted by Rance Wolfe.

Members present were Rance Wolfe, David and Dan DeLong, Bobby Hively, Rick Crawford, Sandy and Brenda Cain, Chris and Chuck Hamilton, Tammy Welliver, Nanissa Anderson, Roy Osborn, Nita and Vicky Whaley, Teresa Ankrom, Jerry Burgess, Tracy Ward, Vicky and Teresa Gilmore, Roberta Adams, Barbara Bach and David Wilson.

Public Strike Alternatives Proposed By OSU Professor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University law professor Merton Bernstein has proposed two strike alternatives to replace the paralyzing work stoppages often used by public employees in labor disputes.

Bernstein calls his new approaches the "nonstoppage strike" and the "graduated strike."

Their value, he says, is that they would produce "responsible bargaining... but without the disruption caused by the conventional strike," while allowing enough time for the complicated public settlement process to work.

Bernstein's arguments appear in the current issue of the Harvard Law Review.

The proposals:

—Upon the declaration of a nonstoppage strike by a public employees' union, workers would continue to put in full time on the job, but forfeit 10 per cent of their take-home pay to a neutral board for use on special, but no - governmental, public projects. The workers pay forfeit would be matched by the public employer involved in the dispute. To increase bargaining pressure, Bernstein says, the union could increase the percentage of "non-stoppage" by ten per cent increments.

Bernstein suggests that the financial losses suffered both by workers and the governmental unit being struck would cause sufficient hardship to both to force responsible bargaining.

—Should the nonstoppage strike fail, a public employee union could switch to a "graduated strike" tactic in which stoppages would be permitted, but only for fractions of the regular work week — initially half a day. The union could increase stoppages by half-day stages, but not beyond the point at which essential services could no longer be provided.

Such alternatives as these, Bernstein argues, can eliminate much of the "hysteria and histrionics" that now accompany public employee strikes, held to be illegal by most public agencies, including the State of Ohio.

Further, he noted: "the implacable opposition in most states to traditional strikes by public employees places the legalization of such strikes beyond debate for the foreseeable future."

Bernstein also rejected the practice of compulsory arbitration of public labor disputes as "a dubious alternative" that stifles bargaining, operates with "illusory" standards and results in unstable arrangements.

Operation Breadbasket Head Quits; To Form Own Group

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, who has severed his ties with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is keeping in touch with other civil rights leaders in an effort to determine his next course of action, aides say.

"We will be joining the Rev. Jackson in a new thrust," the Rev. David Wallace, an administrative assistant to the former SCLC leader here, said Sunday.

But Wallace reiterated Jackson's statement Saturday that there were no immediate plans to form a new organization. Jackson announced Saturday that he was resigning effective Dec. 17 as national director of Operation Breadbasket, economic arm of the SCLC. The resignation stemmed from a dispute over how Jackson was running the organization.

Wallace also said he and three other paid staffers of Operation Breadbasket would resign this week. Their action, he explained, would follow the resignations of the 35 nonpaid members on the SCLC's board of directors here.

In Atlanta, the Rev. Ralph

David Abernathy, head of the SCLC, said he had made no attempts to communicate with Jackson. But he added that Jackson's departure would not mean the end for the SCLC in Chicago.

"No person is indispensable," Abernathy said.

In New York, Jackson drew support from a number of nationally known black leaders who agreed at a meeting to help him form a new black economic development organization.

They included Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes, Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and writer-actor Ozzie Davis.

Operation Breadbasket was brought to Chicago by the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1966 and the 30-year-old Jackson headed the program since its inception here. The program made inroads in gaining employment for blacks in Chicago and helping to initiate businesses in black communities.

But a feud developed over the past years between Jackson and Abernathy. The dispute centered on the growing independence of Jackson and Operation Breadbasket. The dispute resulted in Jackson's suspension Dec. 3 for 60 days with pay.

U.S. Wins Concessions From Japan

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States gained major trade concessions from the Japanese in weekend talks here, but not so much as the Americans bargained for, Japanese spokesmen say.

The same spokesmen indicated that the American failure to win all its goals could dim prospects for agreement on international monetary realignment at the Group of Ten meetings in Washington Friday and Saturday. The Group of Ten consists of the 10 wealthiest non-Communist trading nations.

Japan will unilaterally reduce tariffs on 30 items, hopefully by April 1972, Japanese Customs Bureau Director Katsura Akahane announced Sunday at the close of the two-day session between high-ranking American and Japanese trade officers.

The Japanese also will eliminate import quotas on four items and offered to reduce Japanese auto import tariffs from 10 to 8 per cent if the United States would lift its 10 per cent import surcharge on Japanese goods.

Japanese tariffs will be reduced on items including cosmetics, electrical appliances, refrigerators, wristwatches, cameras and beef tallow. Import quotas will be ended on ham and sausage, refined sugar, tomato puree and cattle feed.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Cuts Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth-largest bank, today cut its prime lending rate from 5 1/2 to 5 1/4 per cent, effective immediately.

The prime rate is the interest charged by banks to their best corporate customers and reductions make money more readily available to businesses. Morgan Guaranty said the cut reflected its evaluation of "money market conditions and loan demand, which has been soft."

Indigents Get Free Transcripts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that indigent defendants in non-felony cases must be given free records of their trials, including a full transcript where necessary, for the purpose of appeals.

The ruling by a unanimous court had the effect of overturning an Illinois Supreme Court rule which provides for trial transcripts only for felony cases.

"The size of the defendant's pocketbook bears no more relationship to his guilt or innocence in a nonfelony than in a felony cases," the high court said.

Awards Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Blakeslee, a freelance writer for the New York Times; John Barbour, an Associated Press Science writer; and an environmental reporting team from Sun Newspapers of Omaha, Neb. have been named winners of the 1971 American Association for the Advancement of Science-Westinghouse science-writing awards. Each carries a $1,000 prize.

McDonald Founder Dies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-eight years ago Maurice J. McDonald got the idea of opening a quick-order hamburger stand where customers could buy burgers for 15 cents.

The stand, set up in San Bernardino, Calif., was an immediate hit and the McDonalds began expanding.

They added an architectural motif, giant golden arches, in 1948 when they began selling franchises—an innovation now widely copied.

McDonald and his brother, Richard, were credited with starting the boom in food take-out establishments. The brothers sold their chain for $2.7 million eight years ago. Today the McDonald Golden Arches chain has more than 1,500 outlets across the nation and claims to have sold eight billion burgers.

A family spokesman said Maurice, 69, died in his sleep Saturday night of heart failure at his Palm Springs home. Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday.

McDonald, a native of Manchester, N.H., moved to California in 1943.

Appointment Of Girl Cadet To Annapolis Set By Javits

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Davy Jones' locker may get a new tenant next month: the men-only tradition at the U.S. Naval Academy.

New York Sen. Jacob K. Javits, who upset a Senate tradition earlier by nominating a girl page, concedes there may be a few old Navy hands flustered by the rustle of skirts on the Annapolis campus.

But he says antiwoman discrimination must go.

He is thinking of nominating a girl to Annapolis before the Jan. 31 deadline for academy selections.

If the Navy custom does sink, it may also sound taps for similar enrollment customs at other public military academies, including West Point and the Air Force Academy.

Javits, a World War II Army veteran, is conferring with Navy Secretary John H. Chafee about the school's admission standards and what changes would have to be made in curriculum and facilities to accommodate women. The Navy says it isn't sure whether there's any formal ban on girls. But all of the 4,200 students at Annapolis are men.

"We don't want to change the Navy," said Javits' administrative assistant, Frank Cummings, "but we do want to change the academy. If nominating a woman isn't to Navy's advantage, we won't do it."

Javits claims his drive is not aimed at putting a woman admiral in command of a battleship.

Instead he feels that training at Annapolis would better equip women career officers for jobs they already are doing.

He wants the academy to admit women proportionate to the number in the women's officer corps in the Navy.

"You don't want to send midshipwomen on a summer cruise to train them to be combat officers," said Cummings, who is in charge of strategy to force an Annapolis beachhead. "So obviously, there would have to be some curriculum substitutes."

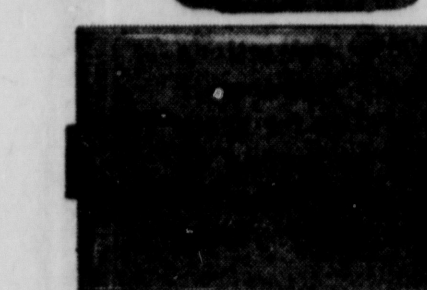

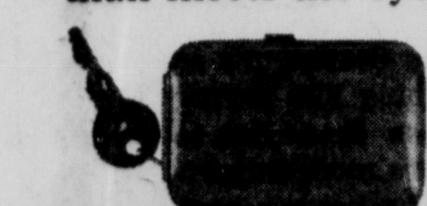

He noted that Annapolis already offers such majors as pre-med and literature and offers "all kinds of humanities subjects which don't have much to do with firing a six-inch gun."

Penn Central Suit May Be Dropped Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said Monday it will drop its $14 million lawsuit against the Penn Central Transportation Co. after the railroad pays $35,819 in back assessments.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown filed the suit on behalf of PUCO last July 13 after Penn Central allegedly failed to comply with commission orders to correct unsafe working conditions and maintenance problems.

Solon's Death Sparks Row In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Premier Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic today rejected any suggestion that his government share in the blame for the assassination of a Protestant senator in Northern Ireland.

The root cause of the violence in Northern Ireland is "the deprivation of human liberties and civil rights" for the British province's Catholic minority, Lynch said in a statement in Dublin.

Sen. John Barnhill, a hard-line member of Northern Ireland's ruling Unionist party, was shot Sunday night at his farm home, and the gunmen blew up the house with the body inside.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland said the gunmen were members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army who came from the republic, and there were demands in London and Belfast that Lynch's government crush the IRA.

The killing touched off new dissension between the two wings of the IRA. The leftist Official faction admitted that some of its members did the killing but said they intended only to destroy the house. A spokesman said Barnhill resisted the gunmen's demands to get out of the house and was shot when he put up a fight.

Sinn Fein, the legal political arm of the Officials in the republic, had earlier blamed the killing on the rival Provisional wing of the IRA and said it would spread bigotry and hatred. The conservative Provisionals issued a similar denunciation and accused the killers of trying to stir up new trouble between Protestants and Catholics.

Tunnel Blast Probe Starts

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—An 18-man special investigation unit appointed by Gov. William G. Milliken opens an investigation today into the cause of a tunnel explosion in which 22 persons died.

Created Monday, the panel includes representatives of the federal and state governments, unions and the construction and insurance industries. Milliken said the investigators would meet at the tunnel site and report to him daily until their work is completed.

Meanwhile, accusations and denials surrounded the Saturday blast in a six-mile-long water filtration tunnel designed to pump 1.2 billion gallons of water daily into the metropolitan Detroit area from Lake Huron.

St. Clair County Sheriff Norman Meharg said it is possible more bodies are buried and won't be recovered until all wreckage is cleared from the 16-foot-diameter tunnel.

The State Police Crime Laboratory in Warren is trying to determine if there are actually 22 corpses.

"Most of the bodies were dismembered and mutilated," one hospital official said.

Roger Roubaud of Mount Clemens, a safety inspector at the tunnel site for 13 months until he quit last May, said safety standards were often ignored so the tunnel could be completed as scheduled next summer.

But he acknowledged that he had never been in the tunnel itself and based his comments on the observation of related projects.

Gerald Remus, general manager of the Metropolitan Detroit Water System, said Roubaud's charges would be investigated.

Driver Faces Death Counts

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—James Anderson, 30, of Youngstown, has been bound over to the Mahoning County grand jury on seven counts of vehicular homicide.

Anderson is accused in the deaths of seven persons when his car jumped a curb in a crowded downtown area Nov. 12 and struck 15 persons.

He was bound to the grand jury Monday by Municipal Court Judge Joseph Donofrio.

Earlier in the day, Anderson was fined $125 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Municipal Judge John Leskovansky on charges of driving with an expired license and failing to stop in the assured clear distance in another traffic accident that occurred Sept. 11.

Anderson also faces a charge of driving without a license in the Nov. 12 accident and a charge of trying to escape police custody the next day at South Side Hospital.

Auto Excise Tax Refunds Start Flowing Through Mail

DETROIT (AP)—If you've bought a Ford, Lincoln or Mercury automobile since Aug. 14, you may get an excise tax refund before Christmas.

If you bought some other brand, you'll likely get your refund in time to take care of the January payment of some Christmas bills.

And if you walk into a dealership to buy today, make sure the dealer takes 7 per cent out of the base price of the car—that's the one at the top of the sticker—before you begin dickering on how much lower you hope to get him before you say, "It's a deal."

The tax has not existed since President Nixon signed a bill repealing it retroactive to last Aug. 14.

Anticipating congressional and presidential approval of the excise tax refund, amounting to an average of about $200 a car, Ford Motor Co. went ahead and prepared refund checks and had 200,000 out of its computers when repeal came.

Ford said those 200,000 went into the mail Monday and mailings would continue at the rate of 40,000 to 50,000 daily until some one million are distributed to those who bought Ford cars or light trucks between Aug. 14 and Dec. 10.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors are asking new car buyers to sign applications for refunds. One spokesman said this was to avoid errors such as making refunds to a wife when there's been a split-up and hubby's already taken off with the car, or vice versa.

Chrysler said it began mailing refund applications Monday. GM said its various divisions would begin mailing applications "early this week."

Earlier, Chrysler said it wouldn't begin mailing applications until Dec. 20, but reported Monday its plans had been moved forward. With each GM division going through verification of refund applications, a company source said he did not anticipate refund checks would begin flowing to buyers before early January.

American Motors gave instant refunds of the tax to those who bought left-over 1971 models after the President's freeze went into effect, but held back on 1972 model rebates.

Auto industry workers get a holiday from Christmas Eve through New Year's Day, so there's a 10-day period coming up when there'll be no refund mailings. When all have been paid off, some three million auto buyers will have received refunds totaling an estimated $600 million.

Child-Selling Term Meted

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—William O'Hara pleaded guilty today to offering to sell two small children for $7,000 and a $600 used automobile. He was sentenced to one year and three months in prison.

The Oklahoma City man made no statement except to offer his guilty plea and was promptly sentenced by Judge Everett Richardson in Criminal Court. He was taken to jail.

The only statement at the brief hearing was a summary by Asst. State Atty. David Carter.

He said O'Hara had brought Theresa Cox, 3, and Robert "Butch" Cox, 2, to Jacksonville and offered to sell them to a couple for $7,000 and a used automobile worth $600.

Police arrested O'Hara and a companion at the appointed time of the sale on Nov. 17. Charges against the companion were dropped later.

State Board Of Education Takes Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education Monday voted to revoke the charter of Jefferson High School in Adams County for failure to meet numerous state minimum standards.

The charter revocation is effective June 30, 1972.

The school's 116 students will be reassigned to the four remaining schools in the Ohio Valley Local School District.

The board said it took the action it did because the school operated only 25 units of classes while 45 are requested by the state, failed to provide foreign language instruction or guidance services, and offered substandard physical education, home economics and industrial arts programs.

Other board decisions at its regular monthly meeting:

—To grant a charter to Harrison Hills City School District in Harrison County, formed recently by the consolidation of two smaller districts.

—To expand the boards of education of the Hamilton County Joint Vocational School District and the Vanguard Joint Vocational School District to provide in each case "equitable representation" for school districts on joint vocational school district boards.

Letter Said From Skyjacker Tells Of $200,000 Motive

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A person claiming to be the man who bailed out of a jetliner with $200,000 he extorted from Northwest Airlines says he is dy and committed the crime "to gain a few fast grains of peace of mind."

In a copy of a typewritten note received Monday by the Los Angeles Times, a man signing the name "D.B. Cooper" said he knew he wouldn't be caught because of his disguise, lack of fingerprints and other unspecified means he said he used to baffle authorities.

"I am no modern day Robin Hood," the note said. "Unfortunately I do have only 14 months to live."

The letter was the latest of several received by various newspapers.

The hijacker armed with what appeared to be a bomb, took control of a 727 jetliner on a flight from Portland, Ore., to Seattle on Thanksgiving eve. After receiving $200,000 in $20 bills at Seattle, the man ordered the plane to Mexico and bailed out somewhere between Seattle, and a refueling stop at Reno, Nev.

The hijacker is believed to be a man who boarded the plane at Portland under the name "D.B. Cooper."

"I've come and gone on several airline flights and am not holed up in some obscure backwoods town," the man said in the note postmarked in Seattle last Saturday. "Neither am I a psychopathic killer. As a matter of fact, I've never even received a speeding ticket."

Claiming a life of "hate, turmoil, hunger and more hate," the writer said the hijacking and extortion "seemed to be the fastest and most profitable way to gain a few fast grains of peace of mind."

The letter was turned over to FBI agents. FBI spokesmen refused to comment on its validity. The letter indicated copies also were sent to the New York Times, Seattle Times and Washington Post.

The New York Times and the Post said they had not received such a letter.

Army Announces Openings In Green Berets

According to Sergeant Jim Neal, United States Army recruiter for Circleville, men may now enlist for the elite Special Forces, the Green Berets, if they meet the qualifications and are 19 years of age.

Special Forces soldiers begin their Army service just as any new soldier by attending Basic Combat Training and Advanced Individual Training. From there, they go on to Airborne Training to qualify as a military parachutist.

The next step is to acquire the special training which distinguishes him as a Green Beret. He may become expert in communications, medical services, language, demolition, weaponry, or operations and intelligence before he qualifies as a member of a Special Forces team.

"Presently the Green Berets are playing a key role in civic action programs, dispensing valuable knowledge and technical skills around the world," St. Neal explained.

"The qualifications are high," Sergeant Neal noted, "but these high standards make it certain that only the best men serve with this renowned organization."

For further information on how to become a Green Beret, see Sergeant Neal at his office located at 116 E. Main St. Or., call him at 474-8525 today.

Cinema X Appeal Set

CINCINNATI (AP)—Unless they win an appeal, operators of Cinema X theater here will be fined $400 a day until they comply with an order to produce certain films during a trial.

Judge William S. Mathews of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court cited Cinema X International of Cincinnati, Inc., Monday for contempt of court and set the fine. But he granted a stay of execution pending an appeal.

Mathews ordered last Friday that the films, labeled obscene by Cincinnati attorney Charles Keating, be brought into court. His order followed several days of testimony by the plaintiff that the films shown at the theater violate Ohio obscenity laws.

Keating filed suit against the operators and asked that the theater be closed down as a public nuisance.

Subpoenas were issued for the films Nov. 17. But Allen Brown, counsel for the defendant, said that under a previous contract, the films were sent out of town the day after the suit was filed. He said the proper officers of the corporation were not aware of the content of the subpoena. He said the films would be available Feb. 4.

Tax Accountant Given Jail Term

CINCINNATI (AP)—An attorney here, who also is an accountant and tax practitioner, has been sentenced to a 60-day jail term on a charge of income tax evasion.

Harold Loewenstine, 59, was sentenced Monday by Judge Timothy Hogan of the U.S. District Court. Hogan meted a two-year sentence, but said Loewenstine would have to spend only 60 days in jail and would be on probation the remainder of the term.

Loewenstine pleaded guilty to evading income taxes owed by the G.W. Davis Co. of Richmond, Ind., for the year ending June 30, 1964. Loewenstine was president of the lawn mower manufacturing firm then.

Environmental Protection Agency Eyes Inner Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency is reviewing a staff recommendation that it plunge into inner-city sanitation, traffic and noise problems.

EPA sources concede that the staff report's recommendations are not particularly revolutionary. But the report's underlying point of view—that federal intervention is needed to solve city environmental problems—may run afoul of the Nixon administration's opposite philosophy of maximum state and local responsibility.

A spokesman obtained the report from an EPA spokesman. The report, prepared largely by young summer interns, says "experience has taught the urban poor to look to the federal level for effective action."

It calls inner-city dwellers "our most endangered people" and adds: "These are the people who need EPA the most. The urban poor, more than any other population group, need protection from solid-waste (trash) pollution, air pollution, noise pollution, water pollution, and pesticides."

The report asks EPA to set up an urban-affairs office and to press for legislation enlarging its authority in the control of noise, solid waste and toxic substances.

James Barnes, an aide to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, said in an interview that EPA is determined to wade into the inner city, but is not sure it should take the hasty plunge urged by its young task force.

Barnes said he is collecting comments on the report from various EPA offices in preparation for policy decisions by Ruckelshaus. Review of the report should be completed some time in January, he said.

He said the 230-page report, requested by Ruckelshaus last July and delivered in September, was only the first step toward the development of EPA initiatives aiding the inner city. Still being pondered, he said, is the big question whether in-

Youngest Mayor A 'Whipper- Snapper'

GRAYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Graysville Mayor Edward Cline says 19-year-old Newcomerstown Mayor Ron Hooker is a "whipper-snapper" who is starting plenty young.

Cline, who celebrated his 97th birthday Sunday, said, "It'll take that young feller some time to match my record. He could be a good mayor, but he'll have to watch himself and walk straight."

Inner-city environment problems are, in fact, distinct from EPA's more general attacks on pollution and whether EPA should aim "rifle-shot" programs at city problems alone.

Lindsay Attacks Federal Policies

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—The nation needs a "new doctrine of fairness and with the new doctrine we can reach the future America's founders foresaw," New York Mayor John Lindsay told Canton area labor leaders Monday night.

He told the 350 representatives of 85 union locals with 29,000 members that federal officials are not living up to their promises.

"Despite all their tough talk, the men in Washington have not delivered and our national government isn't working for most of us," Lindsay said at the annual Greater Canton AFL-CIO Council recognition dinner.

dying and committed the crime "to gain a few fast grains of peace of mind."

In a copy of a typewritten note received Monday by the Los Angeles Times, a man signing the name "D.B. Cooper" said he knew he wouldn't be caught because of his disguise, lack of fingerprints and other unspecified means he said he used to baffle authorities.

"I am no modern day Robin Hood," the note said. "Unfortunately I do have only 14 months to live."

The letter was the latest of several received by various newspapers.

The hijacker armed with what appeared to be a bomb, took control of a 727 jetliner on a flight from Portland, Ore., to Seattle on Thanksgiving eve. After receiving $200,000 in $20 bills at Seattle, the man ordered the plane to Mexico and bailed out somewhere between Seattle and a refueling stop at Reno, Nev.

The hijacker is believed to be a man who boarded the plane at Portland under the name "D.B. Cooper."

"I've come and gone on several airline flights and am not holed up in some obscure backwoods town," the man said in the note postmarked in Seattle last Saturday. "Neither am I a psychopathic killer. As a matter of fact, I've never even received a speeding ticket."

Claiming a life of "hate, turmoil, hunger and more hate," the writer said the hijacking and extortion "seemed to be the fastest and most profitable way to gain a few last grains of peace of mind."

The letter was turned over to FBI agents. FBI spokesmen refused to comment on its validity. The letter indicated copies also were sent to the New York Times, Seattle Times and Washington Post.

The New York Times and the Post said they had not received such a letter.

Army Announces Openings In Green Berets

According to Sergeant Jim Neal, United States Army recruiter for Circleville, men may now enlist for the elite Special Forces, the Green Berets, if they meet the qualifications and are 19 years of age.

Special Forces soldiers begin their Army service just as any new soldier by attending Basic Combat Training and Advanced Individual Training. From there, they go on to Airborne Training to qualify as a military parachutist.

The next step is to acquire the special training which distinguishes him as a Green Beret. He may become expert in communications, medical services, language, demolition, weaponry, or operations and intelligence before he qualifies as a member of a Special Forces team.

"Presently the Green Berets are playing a key role in civic action programs, dispensing valuable knowledge and technical skills around the world," St. Neal explained.

"The qualifications are high," Sergeant Neal noted, "but these high standards make it certain that only the best men serve with this renowned organization."

For further information on how to become a Green Beret, see Sergeant Neal at his office located at 116 E. Main St. Or., call him at 474-8525 today.

Cinema X Appeal Set

CINCINNATI (AP)—Unless they win an appeal, operators of Cinema X theater here will be fined $400 a day until they comply with an order to produce certain films during a trial.

Judge William S. Mathews of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court cited Cinema X International of Cincinnati, Inc., Monday for contempt of court and set the fine. But he granted a stay of execution pending an appeal.

Mathews ordered last Friday that the films, labeled obscene by Cincinnati attorney Charles Keating, be brought into court. His order followed several days of testimony by the plaintiff that the films shown at the theater violate Ohio obscenity laws.

Keating filed suit against the operators and asked that the theater be closed down as a public nuisance.

Subpoenas were issued for the films Nov. 17. But Allen Brown, counsel for the defendant, said that under a previous contract, the films were sent out of town the day after the suit was filed. He said the proper officers of the corporation were not aware of the content of the subpoena. He said the films would be available Feb. 4.

Tax Accountant Given Jail Term

CINCINNATI (AP)—An attorney here, who also is an accountant and tax practitioner, has been sentenced to a 60-day jail term on a charge of income tax evasion.

Harold Loewenstine, 59, was sentenced Monday by Judge Timothy Hogan of the U.S. District Court. Hogan meted a two-year sentence, but said Loewenstine would have to spend only 60 days in jail and would be on probation the remainder of the term.

Loewenstine pleaded guilty to evading income taxes owed by the G.W. Davis Co. of Richmond, Ind., for the year ending June 30, 1964. Loewenstine was president of the lawn mower manufacturing firm then.

Environmental Protection Agency Eyes Inner Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency is reviewing a staff recommendation that it plunge into inner-city sanitation, traffic and noise problems.

EPA sources concede that the staff report's recommendations are not particularly revolutionary. But the report's underlying point of view—that federal intervention is needed to solve city environmental problems—may run afoul of the Nixon administration's opposite philosophy of maximum state and local responsibility.

A spokesman obtained the report from an EPA spokesman.

The report, prepared largely by young summer interns, says "experience has taught the urban poor to look to the federal level for effective action."

It calls inner-city dwellers "our most endangered people"

Washington Dashes Rams Hopes, 38-24

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was billed as a civil war. And to some it was. The result put George Allen's Washington Redskins into the National Football League's National Conference playoffs.

The 38-24 Washington victory Monday night left Los Angeles Rams, Allen's team for five years before he was fired and moved on to Washington, with a longshot opportunity for the playoffs. It was Allen's first game against the Rams since he was fired after making winners of the Los Angeles club. He said afterward that "there's no bitterness with my relationship with the Rams. I'm glad to win and glad to be back in the Coliseum although it's my first time in the visitors' dressing room." The Rams, under former UCLA coach Tommy Prothro, were rated one touchdown better before the kickoff. The pregame talk was Washington defense vs. Los Angeles offense.

The passing potential of Bill Kilmer didn't draw much notice. But the 31-year-old "No. 2" Washington quarterback, playing ahead of the mending Sonny Jurgensen, threw three touchdown passes as the Redskins ran up their highest point total of the season.

Washington could win the Eastern Division on Sunday if it defeats Cleveland and first-place Dallas loses to St. Louis. But, with its 9-3-1 record, Washington is assured of the NFC wild-card playoff berth going to the club with the best runner-up record. The Rams, 7-5-1, meanwhile, are through for the season unless they beat or tie Pittsburgh and Detroit upsets San Francisco on Sunday. The 49ers moved half a game ahead of Los Angeles when the Rams lost to Washington.

The Redskins brought eight ex-Rams into Memorial Coliseum on a cold, blustery night for the nationally televised contest.

They included linebacker Jack Pardee, who said, "After the first pileup I forgot what side I was on and headed for the Ram bench."

A second-string defensive back who's very big on Allen's special teams, Ted Vactor, gave the Redskins two big plays, and each coach gambled on fourth-down plays. Allen won and Prothro lost.

After Curt Knight tied his personal distance mark with a wind-aided 52-yard field goal to tie the score at 10-10 in the second quarter, the Rams drove to the Washington 19. On fourth and two, the Rams passed up a field goal attempt and quarterback Roman Gabriel was stopped by Pardee one yard short of a first down.

"We did it because we thought we could make it," said Prothro. "I think we do that a lot of times."

"Kilmer threw awfully well. We had a bad football game and they had a good one."

Allen, considered the more conservative of the two coaches, made his gamble after Vactor blocked a 29-yard field goal attempt and Kilmer capitalized with a 32-yard touchdown pass to Clifton McNeil for a 17-10 lead.

Vactor, a three-year veteran from Nebraska, recovered a fumble on the next kickoff at the Los Angeles four. Including an automatic first down on a defensive holding penalty against the Rams, it took Washington seven plays to score, with Larry Brown carrying in on fourth down and the football less than a foot from the end zone.

A Gabriel interception, his first of three in the game, set up what proved to be the winning touchdown in the third quarter. Mike Bass outtaught Lance Rentzel for the ball at the Rams' 45 and three plays later Kilmer threw a five-yard touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson for a 31-10 lead.

The Rams struck first when Kilmer's former UCLA teammate, Kermit Alexander, intercepted his pass and raced 82 yards for a touchdown.

But Washington struck quickly when Kilmer hit Jefferson on the Rams' 27 and Jefferson beat defenders Jimmy Nettles and Dave Elmendorf on a 70-yard touchdown play.

"That helped our momentum," said Kilmer, "but the key was when I hit Clifton for a touchdown and then they fumbled the kickoff."

The back-to-back plays made a hero of Vactor, who explained, "I was just lucky, I guess."

Skorich Sees Tough Game With 'Skins'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—"I expected some letdown after we clinched the title the week before, but not that much," Cleveland Browns' Coach Nick Skorich said Monday in reviewing Sunday's 21-17 victory over New Orleans.

The Browns had seven fumbles and had two passes intercepted.

The Browns, now 8-5 and awaiting a Dec. 26 playoff game in Cleveland against either Baltimore or Miami, close their regular season next Sunday at Washington.

"We know we're not going to be playing in New Orleans this week," said Skorich. "If we give Washington the ball seven times we'll lose by four touchdowns."

"We have to go after them because they're a good football team. We've got to be able to meet the challenge."

Skorich said he'll continue to use the regulars against Washington and said, "We'll go with the same lineup and search to improve for the playoffs."

"The way we played on offense last Sunday we certainly didn't improve. Defensively we did. We made fine progress."

Ken Anderson To See Action Against Jets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie quarterback Ken Anderson, who started five games for the Cincinnati Bengals earlier this year, is figured to see plenty of action Sunday against the New York Jets.

Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said Monday that he intends to "take a good look at Kenny. We're going to make it a point to play him."

Anderson of Augustana College in Illinois hasn't played since he was called on late in Cincinnati's game against San Diego three weeks ago. The Bengals won it 31-0.

After first team quarterback Virgil Carter was hurt in Cincinnati's third game this year, Anderson was pressed into starting assignments for five consecutive contests. The Bengal lost all five but Brown said that Anderson performed well in most of the games.

Brown said he was not certain whether Anderson would start this Sunday.

The Bengals stand 4-9 and a victory would give them the second best record in their four-year history. It would also prevent them from a possible last-place finish in the Central Division of the National Football League's American Conference. The Bengals won the division in 1970.

If the Bengals lose, they would finish the year with the second, third or fourth worst record in the NFL. Of course, a loss would give them a higher draft selection.

But Brown said that "we'll give it an all-out shot again Sunday. The guys have a good feeling about our football. They have stayed in the spirit of trying, and their morale is good."

Reflecting on last Sunday's 21-13 loss to Pittsburgh and previous defeats by even closer margins, Brown said an in-depth study isn't needed to explain the Bengals record this year.

"We fumble. We don't hold the ball. We don't make the big defensive plays. We're called for penalties on crucial downs. We break down in the last quarter," Brown said. "Add them up and you lose."

Reserve Cagers In Tournament

Westfall, Logan Elm and Amanda will participate in a reserve basketball tournament Dec. 27-28 at St. Charles High School, Columbus.

Logan Elm will meet Amanda 7 p.m. on the 27th with Westfall taking on St. Charles at 8:30 p.m.

The losers will meet 7 p.m. on the 28th followed by the championship contest.

Walt Schlunkman Bounced By Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers coaching staff has been caught in a cross-fire.

The first shot was fired last month when Oiler General Manager John Breen and owner Bud Adams decided to fire offensive line coach Ernie Zwalhen without head coach Ed Hughes' consent.

A volley from the other side dropped another assistant coach Monday when Hughes relieved offensive backfield coach Walt Schlunkman, who had been with the Oilers since their formation and had been on good terms with management.

Spartans Defeat Kentucky, 91-85

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

In Adolph Rupp's first 41 years as basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, the Wildcats never had a losing season.

This could be the first. "We haven't got it this year," said the venerable 70-year-old Rupp Monday night after the seventh-ranked Wildcats were upended by Michigan State 91-85 for their second consecutive setback after three victories. "We just don't have the material."

Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas concurred with Rupp's observation. "Kentucky certainly is not as strong as it has been in the past," said Ganakas.

Since Rupp became Kentucky's coach in 1930, the Wildcats have won an amazing total of 858 games while losing only 183. They also have won the NCAA title four times, the National Invitation Tournament championship once and the Southeastern Conference crown a record 26 times.

Maryland, ranked 15th in the latest Associated Press poll, was the only other member of the Top 20 in action Tuesday night, and the Terrapins trampled Georgetown, D.C., 79-46 as 6-foot-11 sophomore Tom McMillen erupted for 32 points.

UCLA, winner of the last five

NCAA championships, easily retained its position atop the rankings in this week's voting. The Bruins, unbeaten in four games, received 37 first-place votes and 898 points in outdistancing Marquette, which finished second with 708 points.

South Carolina was third, followed by North Carolina, Penn. Brigham Young, Kentucky, St. John's, N.Y., Florida State and Ohio State and Southern California, who tied for 10th.

Then came Indiana, Long Beach State, Jacksonville, Maryland, Southwestern Louisiana, Louisville, Princeton, Virginia and Houston.

Rupp, the winningest coach in collegiate basketball history, said he was "bitterly disappointed" over the Wildcats loss to Michigan State. "We should have beaten that team," he added.

Michigan State's Mike Robinson and Kentucky's 6-11 Jim Andrews shared game scoring honors with 32 points apiece. But Andrews often was slow getting up and down the court, enabling Michigan State to dominate the rebounding.

Rupp also was disappointed in the play of his guards. He said he sent in every play in the first half "and the guards ran only two of them. What kind of guard play is that?"

Elsewhere, unbeaten Missouri, behind John Brown's 32 points, rolled to its sixth victory, beating St. Francis, Pa. 104-96; Kansas State broke loose for 52 points in the second half and routed Creighton 90-68; Bobby Jack's 21 points and 11 rebounds led Oklahoma to a 79-73 victory over Alabama, and Arkansas equalled the highest point total ever scored against Oklahoma State, thrashing the Cowboys 90-76.

Also, Wisconsin stretched its winning streak to four games, the longest string in John Powlless' four seasons as coach, overpowering Florida Tech 90-58; Iowa, leading by 13 points with three minutes left, held on for an 87-85 victory over Nevada; Henry Wilmore's 33 points, 24 in the first half, paced Michigan to a 91-80 triumph over the Australian National team, and Texas, sparked by Larry Robinson's 31 points, whipped the touring Athletes in Action 115-90.

New Mexico State pulled away from Arizona in the final 15 minutes for an 89-73 victory; Auburn handed Mississippi its first loss in six games, 85-75, in the SEC opener for both teams; undefeated Maine upset Rhode Island 58-53 in a Yankee Conference game; Marshall won its fourth in a row, flogging Morehead 105-83, and Harvard scored the first 15 points and coasted to a 104-77 triumph over Boston University in the title game of the Beanpot Tournament.

Akron Zips Defeat Rockets 80-76 In Basketball Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo University won the statistical battle and the first half, but lost the game Monday as the Akron Zips came from behind to defeat the Rockets 80-76 in non-conference basketball action.

The victory was Akron's fourth in as many starts. It was the first season loss for the Rockets, now 2-1.

The Rockets wound up the game shooting 52 per cent from the field, compared to the Zips 50 per cent, and outrebounding

Akron 50-26. Akron had the edge from the free throw line with 22 conversions in 33 tries. Toledo hit on just 14 of 25 from the charity stripe.

But the Mid-American Conference Rockets saw a comfortable 15-point lead midway through the final period dissolve, aided by seven costly Toledo turnovers and an uncanny Akron scoring spree in the game's closing minutes that saw the Zips hit their last seven shots from the field.

Game scoring honors went to Toledo center Tom Kozelko with 26 points. The independent Zips were led by the 24 points of forward Len Paul.

Youngstown stayed unbeaten in three games with an easy 88-57 victory over hapless Ohio Wesleyan.

Penguin senior guard Billy Johnson topped all scorers with 30 points. Ray Schmidt was high man for the Bishops with 21.

Ohio Wesleyan is now 1-4 for the year.

In other games on Monday's brief schedule, Eastern Kentucky, 2-2, defeated Dayton 98-91, dropping the Flyers to 2-3; and Virginia's Old Dominion College handed Xavier its third loss of the year against one win, 90-88.

Los Angeles Lakers Show Top Balance

NEW YORK (AP) — The record-breaking Los Angeles Lakers, who've won 21 consecutive National Basketball Association games, are doing it with a balanced attack that doesn't show up when you examine the scoring records.

Statistics released by the NBA today, show only one Laker, guard Gail Goodrich, among the top 10 scorers in the league.

Goodrich, averaging 26.8 points per game, stands third behind Milwaukee's Kareem Jabbar and Bob Love of Chicago. Jabbar is averaging 33.4 points per game and Love 27 points per game.

Washington Dashes Rams Hopes, 38-24

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was billed as a civil war. And to some it was. The result put George Allen's Washington Redskins into the National Football League's National Conference playoffs.

The 38-24 Washington victory Monday night left Los Angeles Rams, Allen's team for five years before he was fired and moved on to Washington, with a longshot opportunity for the playoffs.

It was Allen's first game against the Rams since he was fired after making winners of the Los Angeles club. He said afterward that "there's no bitterness with my relationship with the Rams. I'm glad to win and glad to be back in the Coliseum although it's my first time in the visitors' dressing room."

The Rams, under former

UCLA coach Tommy Prothro, were rated one touchdown better before the kickoff. The pregame talk was Washington defense vs. Los Angeles offense.

The passing potential of Bill Kilmer didn't draw much notice. But the 31-year-old "No. 2" Washington quarterback, playing ahead of the mending Sonny Jurgensen, threw three touchdown passes as the Redskins ran up their highest point total of the season.

Washington could win the Eastern Division on Sunday if it defeats Cleveland and first-place Dallas loses to St. Louis. But, with its 9-3-1 record, Washington is assured of the NFC wild-card playoff berth going to the club with the best runner-up record.

The Rams, 7-5-1, meanwhile, are through for the season unless they beat or tie Pittsburgh and Detroit upsets San Francisco on Sunday. The 49ers moved half a game ahead of Los Angeles when the Rams lost to Washington.

The Redskins brought eight ex-Rams into Memorial Coliseum on a cold, blustery night for the nationally televised contest.

They included linebacker Jack Pardee, who said, "After the first pileup I forgot what side I was on and headed for the Ram bench."

A second-string defensive back who's very big on Allen's special teams, Ted Vactor, gave the Redskins two big plays, and each coach gambled on fourth-down plays. Allen won and Prothro lost.

After Curt Knight tied his personal distance mark with a wind-aided 52-yard field goal to tie the score at 10-10 in the second quarter, the Rams drove to the Washington 19. On fourth and two, the Rams passed up a field goal attempt and quarterback Roman Gabriel was stopped by Pardee one yard short of a first down.

"We did it because we thought we could make it," said Prothro. "I think we do that a lot of times."

"Kilmer threw awfully well. We had a bad football game and they had a good one."

Allen, considered the more conservative of the two coaches, made his gamble after Vactor blocked a 29-yard field goal attempt and Kilmer capitalized with a 32-yard touchdown pass to Clifton McNeil for a 17-10 lead.

Vactor, a three-year veteran from Nebraska, recovered a fumble on the next kickoff at the Los Angeles four. Including an automatic first down on a defensive holding penalty against the Rams, it took Washington seven plays to score, with Larry Brown carrying in on fourth down and the football less than a foot from the end zone.

A Gabriel interception, his first of three in the game, set up what proved to be the winning touchdown in the third quarter. Mike Bass outgated Lance Rentzel for the ball at the Rams' 45 and three plays later Kilmer threw a five-yard touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson for a 31-10 lead.

The Rams struck first when Kilmer's former UCLA teammate, Kermit Alexander, intercepted his pass and raced 82 yards for a touchdown.

But Washington struck quickly when Kilmer hit Jefferson on the Rams' 27 and Jefferson beat defenders Jimmy Nettles and Dave Elmendorf on a 70-yard touchdown play.

"That helped our momentum," said Kilmer, "but the key was when I hit Clifton for a touchdown and then they fumbled the kickoff."

The back-to-back plays made a hero of Vactor, who explained, "I was just lucky. I guess."

Spartans Defeat Kentucky, 91-85

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
In Adolph Rupp's first 41 years as basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, the Wildcats never had a losing season.

This could be the first.

"We haven't got it this year," said the venerable 70-year-old Rupp Monday night after the seventh-ranked Wildcats were upended by Michigan State 91-85 for their second consecutive setback after three victories. "We just don't have the material."

Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas concurred with Rupp's observation. "Kentucky certainly is not as strong as it has been in the past," said Ganakas.

Since Rupp became Kentucky's coach in 1930, the Wildcats have won an amazing total of 858 games while losing only 183. They also have won the NCAA title four times, the National Invitation Tournament championship once and the Southeastern Conference crown a record 26 times.

Maryland, ranked 15th in the latest Associated Press poll, was the only other member of the Top 20 in action Tuesday night, and the Terrapins trampled Georgetown, D.C., 79-46 as 6-foot-11 sophomore Tom McMillen erupted for 32 points.

UCLA, winner of the last five

NCAA championships, easily retained its position atop the rankings in this week's voting. The Bruins, unbeaten in four games, received 37 first-place votes and 898 points in outdistancing Marquette, which finished second with 708 points.

South Carolina was third, followed by North Carolina, Penn. Brigham Young, Kentucky, St. John's, N.Y., Florida State and Ohio State and Southern California, who tied for 10th.

Then came Indiana, Long Beach State, Jacksonville, Maryland, Southwestern Louisiana, Louisville, Princeton, Virginia and Houston.

Rupp, the winningest coach in collegiate basketball history, said he was "bitterly disappointed" over the Wildcats loss to Michigan State. "We should have beaten that team," he added.

Michigan State's Mike Robinson and Kentucky's 6-11 Jim Andrews shared game scoring honors with 32 points apiece. But Andrews often was slow getting up and down the court, enabling Michigan State to dominate the rebounding.

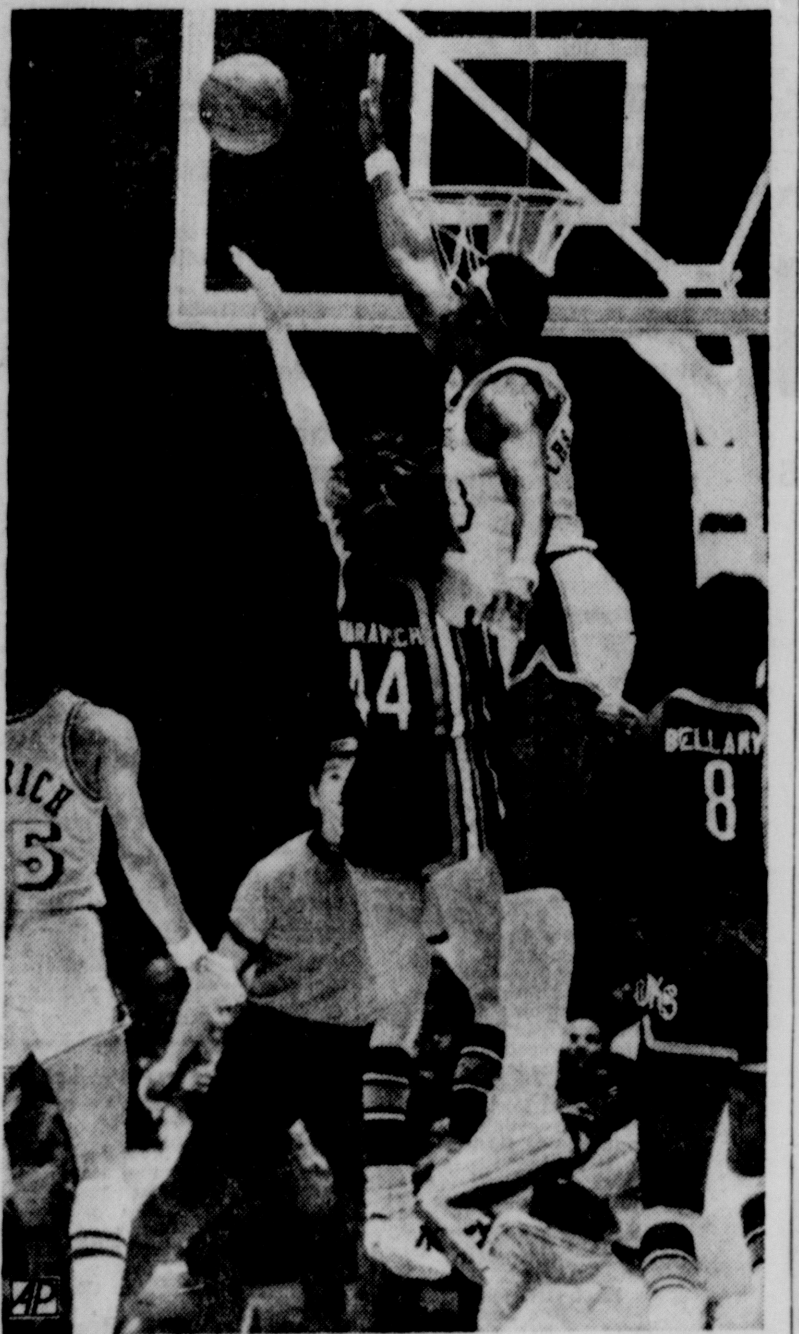

Rupp also was disappointed in the play of his guards. He said he sent in every play in the first half "and the guards ran only two of them. What kind of guard play is that?"

Elsewhere, unbeaten Missouri, behind John Brown's 32 points, rolled to its sixth victory, beating St. Francis, Pa. 104-96; Kansas State broke loose for 52 points in the second half and routed Creighton 90-68; Bobby Jack's 21 points and 11 rebounds led Oklahoma to a 79-73 victory over Alabama, and Arkansas equalled the highest point total ever scored against Oklahoma State, thrashing the Cowboys 90-76.

Also, Wisconsin stretched its winning streak to four games, the longest string in John Powell's four seasons as coach, overpowering Florida Tech 90-58; Iowa, leading by 13 points with three minutes left, held on for an 87-85 victory over Nevada; Henry Wilmore's 33 points, 24 in the first half, paced Michigan to a 91-80 triumph over the Australian National team, and Texas, sparked by Larry Robinson's 31 points, whipped the touring Athletes in Action 115-90.

New Mexico State pulled away from Arizona in the final 15 minutes for an 89-73 victory; Auburn handed Mississippi its first loss in six games, 85-75, in the SEC opener for both teams; undefeated Maine upset Rhode Island 58-53 in a Yankee Conference game; Marshall won its fourth in a row, flogging Morehead 105-83, and Harvard scored the first 15 points and coasted to a 104-77 triumph over Boston University in the title game of the Beanpot Tournament.

Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas concurred with Rupp's observation. "Kentucky certainly is not as strong as it has

Akron Zips Defeat Rockets 80-76 In Basketball Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toledo University won the statistical battle and the first half, but lost the game Monday as the Akron Zips came from behind to defeat the Rockets 80-76 in non-conference basketball action.

The victory was Akron's fourth in as many starts. It was the first season loss for the Rockets, now 2-1.

The Rockets wound up the game shooting 52 per cent from the field, compared to the Zips 50 per cent, and outrebounding

Akron 50-26. Akron had the edge from the free throw line with 22 conversions in 33 tries. Toledo hit on just 14 of 25 from the charity stripe.

But the Mid-American Conference Rockets saw a comfortable 15-point lead midway through the final period dissolve, aided by seven costly Toledo turnovers and an uncanny Akron scoring spree in the game's closing minutes that saw the Zips hit their last seven shots from the field.

Game scoring honors went to Toledo center Tom Kozelko with 26 points. The independent Zips were led by the 24 points of forward Len Paul.

Youngstown stayed unbeaten in three games with an easy 88-57 victory over hapless Ohio Wesleyan.

Penguin senior guard Billy Johnson topped all scorers with 30 points. Ray Schmidt was high man for the Bishops with 21.

Ohio Wesleyan is now 1-4 for the year.

In other games on Monday's brief schedule, Eastern Kentucky, 2-2, defeated Dayton 98-91, dropping the Flyers to 2-3; and Virginia's Old Dominion College handed Xavier its third loss of the year against one win, 90-88.

Ken Anderson To See Action Against Jets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie quarterback Ken Anderson, who started five games for the Cincinnati Bengals earlier this year, is figured to see plenty of action Sunday against the New York Jets.

Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said Monday that he intends to "take a good look at Kenny. We're going to make it a point to play him."

Anderson of Augustana College in Illinois hasn't played since he was called on late in Cincinnati's game against San Diego three weeks ago. The Bengals won it 31-0.

After first team quarterback Virgil Carter was hurt in Cincinnati's third game this year, Anderson was pressed into starting assignments for five consecutive contests. The Bengal lost all five but Brown said that Anderson performed well in most of the games.

Brown said he was not certain whether Anderson would start this Sunday.

The Bengals stand 4-9 and a victory would give them the second best record in their four-year history. It would also prevent them from a possible last-place finish in the Central Division of the National Football League's American Conference. The Bengals won the division in 1970.

If the Bengals lose, they would finish the year with the second, third or fourth worst record in the NFL. Of course, a loss would give them a higher draft selection.

But Brown said that "we'll give it an all-out shot again Sunday. The guys have a good feeling about our football. They have stayed in the spirit of trying, and their morale is good."

Reflecting on last Sunday's 21-13 loss to Pittsburgh and previous defeats by even closer margins, Brown said an in-depth study isn't needed to explain the Bengals record this year.

"We fumble. We don't hold the ball. We don't make the best defensive plays. We're called for penalties on crucial downs. We break down in the last quarter," Brown said. "Add them up and you lose."

Reserve Cagers In Tournament

Westfall, Logan Elm and Amanda will participate in a reserve basketball tournament Dec. 27-28 at St. Charles High School, Columbus.

Logan Elm will meet Amanda 7 p.m. on the 27th with Westfall taking on St. Charles at 8:30 p.m.

The losers will meet 7 p.m. on the 28th followed by the championship contest.

Walt Schlinkman Bounced By Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers coaching staff has been caught in a cross-fire.

The first shot was fired last month when Oiler General Manager John Breen and owner Bud Adams decided to fire offensive line coach Ed Hughes' consent.

A volley from the other side dropped another assistant coach Monday when Hughes relieved offensive backfield coach Walt Schlinkman, who had been with the Oilers since their formation and had been on good terms with management.

Squires Top Floridians; Win 123-115

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Charlie Scott is the highest scorer in professional basketball this season, yet he is being criticized.

He has come under fire for shooting too much and handling the ball too often. But there could be little fault with his play Monday night, as the 6-foot-5 guard pumped in 43 points, leading the Virginia Squires to a 123-115 American Basketball Association victory over the slumping Floridians.

Carolina broke a six game losing streak, beating the Utah Stars 124-115 in the only other ABA contest.

Scott's 43-point performance was the 11th time in the last 12 games that he has scored 40 or more points, raising his season's average to better than 35 points per game.

Because of numerous Virginia injuries, Scott has been forced to carry an extra scoring load and handle the ball more than usual, directing the team's offense like a football quarterback—and for that he has been criticized.

"The quarterback is most open to criticism because he handles the ball the most," he said. "It's just like football. When you win, the quarterback gets the publicity; when you lose, he gets the blame."

"Someone has to do it," he continued, "and I will as long as Al (coach Al Bianchi) wants me to."

"If I felt I was hurting the club, I would cut down on my shooting. In fact, when all our injured players get back to par, I'll probably be shooting less. It would be tough to keep up this average anyway. How many guards average 35 points a game?"

Urge Rules For College Recruiters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Colleges should take a cue from pro baseball when it comes to seeking high school talent.

That's the opinion of Indiana scholastic commissioner Phil Eskew, who addressed the second annual National Conference of High School Directors Conference Monday.

Eskew advocates the NCAA and the National Federation of State High School Associations work out new guidelines for college recruiters. He said the federation and baseball had worked out a suitable agreement.

"Pro baseball scouts cooperate 100 per cent. They never say a word to a kid until his team is eliminated from tournament play," the 10-year commissioner of Indiana athletics said.

"We've got to get some definite rules to stop parents from being deluged by the colleges," Eskew said.

"It's nothing for a recruiter to visit a home at 11 at night, stay more than an hour or even telephone at 4 in the morning," he said.

College recruiters are not supposed to visit with a player until after the season is over, but they wink at the rule, according to Eskew.

4-Day Week Talks Ended

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. broke off discussions Monday over a four-day week when the company declined to begin a test of the plan.

Douglas Fraser, UAW vice president, charged that the company was "not interested in going forward with the experiment."

William Bavinser, director of industrial relations for Chrysler, said the experiment posed too many problems for the company to be feasible at this time.

He said that production schedules and the flow of materials between plants was one obstacle not yet worked out.

Fraser noted that the union and the company also disagreed over how to apply overtime to a work week of four 10-hour days. He said the experiment would have allowed the workers to see what kind of work week they would like.

The Wildlife Management
Institute will sponsor a North American wildlife and natural resources conference in Mexico City next March 12-15.

increase of about 70 per cent,
campus security director
James Fyke said Monday.

Fyke classified major crimes as burglary at dormitories, assault and attempted rape. A security department spokesman said that many campus crimes, particularly automobile thefts and car break-ins, are committed by nonstudents.

Crash Kills C.S. Kettering

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—
Charles S. Kettering II, whose own support of education and research followed closely the family tradition begun by his grandfather died here Sunday at the age of 40.

Kettering died in a local hospital an hour after he had been struck by a car as he knelt beside the body of his pet dog lying at the edge of a divided highway near his home. The dog had been hit by a car moments earlier.

The philanthropist and educator was the grandson of the late Charles F. Kettering, long-time vice president of General Motors
Corp. in charge of research.

The elder Kettering in 1915 established a $115 million foundation bearing his name to lend financial assistance to education and research projects.

The younger Kettering moved to Denver from Dayton, Ohio, in 1965 to establish a western branch of the Kettering Foundation, then abandoned that plan to set up one of his own, the C.F.K. Ltd., in 1968.

Squires Top Floridians; Win 123-115

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charlie Scott is the highest scorer in professional basket- ball this season, yet he is being criticized.

He has come under fire for shooting too much and handling the ball too often. But there could be little fault with his play Monday night, as the 6-foot-5 guard pumped in 43 points, leading the Virginia Squires to a 123-115 American Basketball Association victory over the slumping Floridians.

Carolina broke a six game losing streak, beating the Utah Stars 124-115 in the only other ABA contest.

Scott's 43-point performance was the 11th time in the last 12 games that he has scored 40 or more points, raising his season's average to better than 35 points per game.

Because of numerous Virginia injuries, Scott has been forced to carry an extra scoring load and handle the ball more than usual, directing the team's offense like a football quarterback—and for that he has been criticized.

"The quarterback is most open to criticism because he handles the ball the most," he said. "It's just like football. When you win, the quarterback gets the publicity; when you lose, he gets the blame."

"Someone has to do it," he continued, "and I will as long as Al (coach Al Bianchi) wants me to."

"If I felt I was hurting the club, I would cut down on my shooting. In fact, when all our injured players get back to par, I'll probably be shooting less. It would be tough to keep up this average anyway. How many guards average 35 points a game?"

Urge Rules For College Recruiters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Col- leges should take a cue from pro baseball when it comes to seeking high school talent.

That's the opinion of Indiana scholastic commissioner Phil Eskew, who addressed the second annual National Conference of High School Directors Conference Monday.

Eskew advocates the NCAA and the National Federation of State High School Associations work out new guidelines for college recruiters. He said the federation and baseball had worked out a suitable agreement.

"Pro baseball scouts cooperate 100 per cent. They never say a word to a kid until his team is eliminated from tournament play," the 10-year commissioner of Indiana athletics said.

"We've got to get some definite rules to stop parents from being deluged by the colleges," Eskew said.

"It's nothing for a recruiter to visit a home at 11 at night, stay more than an hour or even telephone at 4 in the morning," he said.

College recruiters are not supposed to visit with a player until after the season is over, but they wink at the rule, according to Eskew.

House Fire Fatal To Little Girl, 5

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A 5-year-old girl died Monday night when trapped with her two brothers in a second-floor bedroom of their East Cleveland home.

The victim was Allison Cook, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Adolph Cook.

The girl's brothers, Adolph Jr., 6, and Randolph, 2, were treated for smoke inhalation at Huron Road Hospital.

Firemen said the parents were at a shop they operate when the fire broke out. The children were in the care of a babysitter.

Kent State Crimes Jump 70 Per Cent

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Major crimes on the Kent State University campus for the first 10 months of the year rose from 245 in 1970 to 400 this year, an increase of about 70 per cent, campus security director James Fyke said Monday.

Fyke classified major crimes as burglary at dormitories, assault and attempted rape. A security department spokesman said that many campus crimes, particularly automobile thefts and car break-ins, are committed by nonstudents.

4-Day Week Talks Ended

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. broke off discussions Monday over a four-day week when the company declined to begin a test of the plan.

Douglas Fraser, UAW vice president, charged that the company was "not interested in going forward with the experiment."

William Bavinser, director of industrial relations for Chrysler, said the experiment posed too many problems for the company to be feasible at this time.

He said that production schedules and the flow of materials between plants was one obstacle not yet worked out.

Fraser noted that the union and the company also disagreed over how to apply overtime to a work week of four 10-hour days. He said the experiment would have allowed the workers to see what kind of work week they would like.

The Wildlife Management Institute will sponsor a North American wildlife and natural resources conference in Mexico City next March 12-15.

Ohio Supreme Court Studies Reapportionment Arguments

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unless a federal court order is issued to prevent it, the Ohio Supreme Court will make a ruling on a state reapportionment plan that already has been declared illegal by federal judges.

U.S. District Judge Frank Battisti, sitting in Youngstown, fined attorney John McElroy $5,000 and State Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, $100 Monday for contempt of court. The citation was for failing to heed a federal order barring legislation on legislative reapportionment until federal action on it was completed.

At the same time as the contempt hearing, the Ohio Supreme Court held a hearing in Columbus on the motion filed by McElroy and Norris for accelerated disposition of their suit filed Nov. 26. The court took it under advisement.

Akron attorney Roy Browne, who represented McElroy and Norris in the contempt hearing, pointed out that Judge Battisti "has not enjoined the Supreme Court from acting on this (motion)" and cannot do so without issuing an injunction.

A three-judge federal panel, dominated 2-1 by Democrats, ruled recently that the plan adopted Sept. 20 by the Ohio Reapportionment Board was unconstitutional and failed to meet either state or federal constitutional requirements.

The ruling, on a suit filed Nov. 16 Youngstown Democrat Samuel Jordan, ordered a new reapportionment plan prepared by Dec. 21 and prohibited legal action on the issue in other courts.

The contempt ruling came after McElroy, once chief aide to former Republican Gov. James Rhodes, refused, along

He described Pecteau as "very quiet, reserved" and said Pecteau had asked that he be allowed to rest before meeting with newsmen.

Essex Praises School Funding In Tax Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The record $1.49 billion provided for public education in the biennial budget passed by the state legislature week will finance "a major redesign of education in Ohio," State School Supt. Martin Essex said Monday.

The new appropriation exceeds by more than $400 million allocations for education during the 1969-71 biennium.

He called the passage of accompanying income tax legislation the "most far-reaching and meaningful" enactment in the state's history.

Essex singled out some reasons for his enthusiasm at an afternoon news conference. They were:

—Minimum state assistance to school districts will be increased from $400 to $600 per pupil.

—To large school districts with more than 70,000 students, of whom at least 20 per cent are receiving Aid to Dependent Children benefits, an additional $25 per pupil is to be made available. Both Cincinnati and Cleveland qualify for this added funding.

—Districts with enrollments of between 20,000 and 70,000 are to be made eligible for $20 per pupil bonus if 50 per cent of the student population is classified as "educationally disadvantaged." Included will be Akron, Canton, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown.

Essex noted that the new money would not be available for distribution to school districts until mid March, but added that districts in tight financial situations could borrow on local property tax revenues until then to keep operating.

Asked whether the new budget would put Ohio in the top ten states in support to education, Essex observed: "You don't get from 50th to first place overnight. I'd say we'd be somewhere in the middle 20s."

TV District Tax Rate Reduced One-Half Mill

Board of education members of the Teays Valley School District were able to squeeze a great amount of business into a few hours when they met Monday evening for their December session.

Traditionally in the meeting of the twelfth month each year, finances are heavily included in debate. Official action was taken to balance the books prior to the year end closeout and approval was given to the district's tax rate reported through the Pickaway County Auditor's office.

For 1972, citizens in the Teays Valley District will experience an overall reduction of one-half mill over this past year.

Total operating millage listed by the auditor shows the TV district carries 3.7 mills inside the 10 mill limitation and 15.6 voted millage for a total of 19.3, the same as in 1971. Bond retirement rate is 3.1 mills, a reduction of .4 mills over last year.

FOR the Eastland School, Teays Valley citizens are paying an operating millage of 1.4 mills, same as in 1971. The bond rate of .4 mills indicates a one-tenth mill reduction.

Totals for all school purposes is 24.2 mills, including Eastland. The fourth-tenth mill additional millage recently passed by voters to expand Eastland's programs and provide additional space will not be collected until 1973.

Attendance at professional workshops were approved for:

Robert Hoover, who Nov. 29 took additional training in techniques of utilizing the Driver Education Mobile Simulator which Teays Valley receives use in summer.

High school Principal Snider and junior high Principal Bill Toney, who attended a School Management Instruction Workshop Dec. 2, 3 in Columbus on student discipline and control.

Fred Brobst, music director, who will attend the Dec. 16 and 17 Midwest Band Clinic in Chicago.

A resignation was accepted effective Nov. 24 from Ashville second grade teacher Mrs. Millie Wendt. Replacing Mrs. Wendt beginning Nov. 29 was Mrs. Arlene Gregory, who was employed for the balance of the school year.

Ann Perrill was assigned a permanent bus route in the Teays Valley District. She has been operating as a substitute on one of her husband's three bus routes.

Baccalaureate and commencement will both be on the same day for TVHS this year. The date of May 28 has been set for the 2 p.m. baccalaureate service and 8 p.m. graduation ceremonies at the high school.

The board rejected all bids received on the 1971 Ford stationwagon which served as a driver education car, claiming all to be too low. Members considered quotations on the 1972 wagon they plan to purchase to replace the present vehicle, but tabled the bids until after they readvertised for sale of the 1971 model.

The intramural program established the beginning of this month in all elementary schools in the district is showing great interest among the fifth and sixth grade students. The program, not interscholastic, permits boys and girls of the district to participate in various athletic programs for an hour and a half after school dismissal. The program is entirely voluntary and is directed by Richard Groff at Ashville, David Barnett at Walnut and Roe Riegel at Scioto. Superintendent Benis Lutz noted today that the program has a heavy response from the youngsters and currently programs are underway for boys' basketball and girls volleyball.

Representatives of the Teays Valley Little League, unaware of planning for the school program, were present to request permission to organize a Little League football and basketball program. Board members gave their permission for the organization to set up Saturday morning clinics at Ashville School — open to all district school children — for instruction in those sports. A coach from the district would be in attendance at all sessions with Little League members.

ATHLETIC Boosters will begin investigation into possibility of constructing a permanent concession stand on the football grounds and were given tentative authorization to do this. Currently two trailer for the crowds, are being used.

A review was made of the financial status of the cafeteria operation. With new federal legislation concerning the free lunches and the price increase for lunches now in effect, the board anticipates the cafeteria to be self-sustaining this year. The cafeteria had been running a deficit at the beginning of the year because the planned lunch price increases could not

The defense minister said Indian forces have suffered more than 8,500 casualties in 10 days of fighting, including 1,978 killed, 5,025 wounded and 1,662 missing.

"I have no figures for Pakistani losses, but I know they are much higher than ours," Ram said, adding that Indian forces have captured more than 4,000 Pakistani troops and more than 4,000 para-military forces, most of them in East Pakistan.

He claimed 83 Pakistani planes shot down and admitted the loss of 41 Indian warplanes, along with nine pilots and three navigators.

Ram also reported that 18 officers and 173 sailors were missing in the sinking two days ago of the Indian frigate Khukri, which was hit by Pakistani fire in the Arabian sea.

go into effect until December. Complete information on the school district's actual standing under the recently passed state budget is not available. Lutz commented that it would probably be one week at least before all the facts and figures would be collected.

Tabled until the Jan. 3 reorganization meeting were action to consider affiliation with the Ohio School Boards Association, liability coverage for board members under new legislation and the delegates for the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators Feb. 12 - 16 in Atlantic City.

Board members agreed to purchase an electronic flasher for a school warning sign to be installed by the village in Commercial Point. Mayor John Kaiser presented the proposal, offering for the village to purchase the second flasher warning sign and install and maintain both.

Present for the final meeting of his term was William Winter. His successor, Janet Bluck, was also in attendance with Everett Beers, Harold Peters, William Hinkle, Jack Warner, clerk Esther Duvall and Superintendent Lutz.

Judge Battisti said the plan to continue the state court litigation "shows their contempt for his court and casts shadows on their claim of innocence."

He said McElroy's fine was heavier because he was "the main principal" in the state action.

Jail Term Commuted

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — After having served more than two years of a 10-year prison term for possession of two marijuana cigarettes, John Sinclair has been released from Southern Michigan Prison, vowing to continue his campaign for legalization of the drug.

The State Supreme Court, which is considering Sinclair's appeal of his conviction, ordered his release on $2,500 bond Monday.

The court said it took the action because a drug bill passed by the legislature last week provides much milder penalties for some marijuana offenses.

The high court previously had refused bail for Sinclair, leader of the Rainbow People's Party, formerly known as the White Panther Party. Sinclair had twice before been charged with narcotics violations.

The Ann Arbor-based party advocates legalization of marijuana.

A dividend of $1.0625 was declared on each share of $4.25 convertible preferred stock, payable Feb. 15 to shareholders of record Feb. 1, 1972.

High school Principal Snider and junior high Principal Bill Toney, who attended a School Management Instruction Workshop Dec. 2, 3 in Columbus on student discipline and control.

Fred Brobst, music director, who will attend the Dec. 16 and 17 Midwest Band Clinic in Chicago.

A resignation was accepted effective Nov. 24 from Ashville second grade teacher Mrs. Millie Wendt. Replacing Mrs. Wendt beginning Nov. 29 was Mrs. Arlene Gregory, who was employed for the balance of the school year.

Ann Perrill was assigned a permanent bus route in the Teays Valley District. She has been operating as a substitute on one of her husband's three bus routes.

Baccalaureate and commencement will both be on the same day for TVHS this year. The date of May 28 has been set for the 2 p.m. baccalaureate service and 8 p.m. graduation ceremonies at the high school.

The board rejected all bids received on the 1971 Ford

stationwagon which served as a driver education car, claiming all to be too low. Members considered quotations on the 1972 wagon they plan to purchase to replace the present vehicle, but tabled the bids until after they advertised for sale of the 1971 model.

The intramural program established the beginning of this month in all elementary schools in the district is showing great interest among the fifth and sixth grade students. The program, not interscholastic, permits boys and girls of the district to participate in various athletic programs for an hour and a half after school dismissal. The program is entirely voluntary and is directed by Richard Groff at Ashville, David Barnett at Walnut and Roe Riegel at Scioto. Superintendent Denis Lutz noted today that the program has a heavy response from the youngsters and currently programs are underway for boys' basketball and girls volleyball.

Representatives of the Teays Valley Little League, unaware of planning for the school program, were present to request permission to organize a Little League football and basketball program. Board members gave their permission for the organization to set up Saturday morning clinics at Ashville School — open to all district school children — for instruction in those sports. A coach from the district would be in attendance at all sessions with Little League members.

ATHLETIC Boosters will begin investigation into possibility of constructing a permanent concession stand on the football grounds and were given tentative authorization to do this. Currently two trailer for the crowds, are being used.

A review was made of the financial status of the cafeteria operation. With new federal legislation concerning the free lunches and the price increase for lunches now in effect, the board anticipates the cafeteria to be self-sustaining this year. The cafeteria had been running

thrusts in the states of Rajasthan and Punjab have been repulsed with heavy losses, he declared.

The defense minister said Indian forces have suffered more than 8,500 casualties in 10 days of fighting, including 1,978 killed, 5,025 wounded and 1,662 missing.

"I have no figures for Pakistani losses, but I know they are much higher than ours," Ram said, adding that Indian forces have captured more than 4,000 Pakistani troops and more than 4,000 para-military forces, most of them in East Pakistan.

He claimed 83 Pakistani planes shot down and admitted the loss of 41 Indian warplanes, along with nine pilots and three navigators.

Ram also reported that 18 officers and 173 sailors were missing in the sinking two days ago of the Indian frigate Khukri, which was hit by Pakistani fire in the Arabian sea.

Complete information on the school district's actual standing under the recently passed state budget is not available. Lutz commented that it would probably be one week at least before all the facts and figures would be collected.

Tabled until the Jan. 3 reorganization meeting were action to consider affiliation with the Ohio School Boards Association, liability coverage for board members under new legislation and the delegates for the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators Feb. 12 - 16 in Atlantic City.

Board members agreed to purchase an electronic flasher for a school warning sign to be installed by the village in Commercial Point. Mayor John Kaiser presented the proposal, offering for the village to purchase the second flasher warning sign and install and maintain both.

Present for the final meeting of his term was William Winter. His successor, Janet Black, was also in attendance with Everett Beers, Harold Peters, William Hinkle, Jack Warner, clerk Esther Duvall and Superintendent Lutz.

Hickam Air Force Base in Honolulu was their first American stop after their release at Hong Kong. From Hickam, the C141 flew nonstop to McGuire.

Air Force Col. Leonard W. Johnson Jr., commander of the 9th Aeromedical Evacuation Group at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines accompanied them on their trip home.

"They are in very good physical condition," he said. "This permitted them to go half way around the world without pause."

He described Fecteau as "very quiet, reserved" and said Fecteau had asked that he be allowed to rest before meeting with newsmen.

Johnson said that during the flight, Miss Harbert asked him "Have you put any men on the moon yet?"

He said he gave a rundown of America's Apollo program to Miss Harbert and Fecteau.
